BEGIN TWO-WAY BOMBING

Allied Fliers In "Shuttle" Raids On Germany—Italy

New Pattern In Allied Bombing Attacks On Axis

R. A. F. Reveals Program Of Two-Way Bombing Over Nazi-Italian Nations

HUGE DESTRUCTION BEING INCREASED

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(I. N. S. Foreign Editor)

A new pattern of bombing that may be emulated throughout the world to visit wholesale destruction upon the Axis was revealed by the Royal Air Force today with inauguration of "shuttle" attacks against Germany and Italy.

For the first time since the great Allied air offensive began, a huge fleet of British bombers took off from English bases, plastered a vital target in Germany, flew to North Africa for fuel and weapons and then riddled objectives in Italy on the way home.

Show Supremacy

Few events of recent weeks have afforded better proof of Allied air supremacy than this daring double-barreled mission carried out by giant four-motored Lancaster bombers—the "big babies" of the R. A. F.

These magnificent planes, which sacrifice armor and gunnery for the sake of a maximum eight-ton bomb load, left British airports to pound the Maybach engine works and the Luftschciffbau radio locator plant at Friedrichshafen, Germany, on the shores of Lake Constance.

They wrought havoc in the once peaceful resort from which Captain Hugo Eckener's dirigibles started their history making world jaunts years ago, dropping all their bombs to lighten their load for the long return journey. But instead of going home, they streaked southward across the top of Italy and the Tyrrhenian sea to land unscathed in North Africa.

New Benefits

The value of this new type of bombing — strategically, psychologically and economically—is obvious

PA NEWC OBSERVES

While the old swimming holes around the county are not drawing the usual crowds, due to war conditions, the boys have already taken over the "hole" near the East Washington street bridge over the Neshannock creek for the summer. The usual diving for pennies with the bridge lined with spectators is under way, Pa Newc is told.

Street department employes are doing some touching up to paving on streets of the city, filling up holes that have developed during the past winter. Highland avenue has been repaired some on the cartway outside the old trolley line right of way. Apparently the only hope for improvement of the entire street rests with the state highway department, this street being a state highway continuation through the city.

Golf driving courses, archery courts, etc., are also noted as listed among the victims of the war this summer.

While fireworks are banned completely in the state for the Fourth of July period, there seem to be some pre-Fourth noise makers that are available, judging from reports from some streets of the city.

* * *

Mrs. Albert Colella, of 515 Lyndal street, reported to Pa Newc that she found an odd bloom in her back yard, the flower being in the daisy family, with three yellow blooms on a single stem.

Declares Morale Of Jap Fliers Cracking

By JACK MAHON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, June 18.— (delayed) — The morale of Japanese fliers in the Solomons area is definitely cracking, Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, commander of United States air operations in the South Pacific, said today.

And he added that it is his fond wish that the enemy continue to send down hundreds of planes for our boys to shoot out of the sky!

"You may say I wish to thank the Japanese government for the close cooperation this past week and I hope it will continue in the future," said Admiral Fitch.

He paused, his blue eyes twinkled for a moment, and then he added: "I really deeply appreciate it."

Suicide Raids

Admiral Fitch, in an exclusive interview with International News Service, analyzed the recent suicide raids in which the Japs lost 144 planes with 20 or more additional listed as probables, in the period from June 6 to 16.

"The Japs know something is coming," he said.

"They know this period of inactivity here can't last forever and they are growing increasingly apprehensive. They have to do something so they send down these planes to harass us and attempt to stave off the blow they know is coming.

"I want to thank them for the cooperation. They sent about 120 planes, perhaps more, down to

Subsidy Vote Appears Near

Administration Leaders And Subsidy Foes Admit Result In Doubt

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program faced its greatest test today as the senate moved toward a vote on proposals to ban use of subsidies to hold down prices.

Both administration leaders and subsidy foes admitted that the result is in doubt. The senate was called into session an hour earlier than usual with leaders pledging a vote by nightfall.

Major farm organizations belatedly healed a split in their ranks and agreed to back anti-subsidy amendments both in senate and house.

While the congressional "farm bloc" itself was split, with Sen. John H. Bankhead (D) Ala., leading a senate fight for an administration

Two Sergeants Are Charged With Large Food Thefts

(International News Service)

REHOBOTH BEACH, Del., June 24—Fort Miles military authorities today held two army sergeants who allegedly confessed to wholesale thefts of meat, cheese and butter from the commissary of the Fort Miles Coast Artillery Post.

Names of the prisoners were withheld pending an investigation by the Army and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The men were captured by Rehoboth police when a woman resident of the fashionable resort turned in a loaf of cheese which she found on the street. A check showed it to be of the kind used only at the post, and a subsequent police investigation led to the discovery of the two sergeants in an automobile loaded with meat bearing the army seal.

Civilian Killed, Girl Injured For Ignoring Sentry

(International News Service)

NEW YORK June 24.—A youthful civilian was shot and killed and his girl companion wounded by a sentry at an army installation on Staten Island when they refused to heed the sentry warning to halt, the anti-aircraft artillery command announced today.

The youth was identified as Frank Denuzzio, 18, of Staten Island. The girl, Cecilia Melnik, 15, also of Staten Island, was removed to Halloran general hospital where her condition was reported "good".

Army authorities are investigating the shooting which occurred last night. The couple were in an automobile, it was said, and failed to halt when challenged by the sentry.

Rail Junction Of Nazis Is Bombed

Russians Keep Up Heavy Air Raids Behind German Lines

HEAVY DAMAGE CAUSED IS REPORT

By NATALIA RENE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, June 24.—Soviet airmen, maintaining a crippling series of aerial assaults against German bases on the Russian front in conjunction with Allied sweeps against western Europe, were reported today to have delivered a heavy assault on the strategic rail junction of Pskov.

Pskov, situated on the rail line connecting Riga, Latvia, with Staraya Russa, was pounded while other strong formations of Russian planes raided nearby airfields.

Set Ablaze

The rail junction, through which the Nazis must move supplies to their forces n ithe Lake Ilmen area, was set ablaze, authoritative quarters announced.

Numerous trains were blasted by direct bomb hits and munition dumps were destroyed.

A considerable number of German aircraft caught on the ground also were reported destroyed.

The Pskov bombardment cost the Soviet air force two planes, it was said.

"The whole territory of the junction was enveloped in flames," an official announcement said.

Munitions Afire

"Many enemy munition and fuel dumps and a great many enemy trains were set on fire. The conflagrations were accompanied by explosions of great force."

The fighting fronts remained comparatively inactive although the high command said that several hundred Nazi troops had been slain in minor sorties on separated fronts.

Desultory artillery firing continued on the central front west of Moscow, according to the Red army noon communique. Earlier it had been announced that Russian troops, after a preliminary artillery barrage, broke into German trenches and killed 100 Nazis. Others were taken prisoner.

NO HILARITY AT VETS CONVENTION

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Without the usual fanfare, parades and traditional features, the state Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment concentrated on business today, and mostly serious business.

A notice posted at the Fort Pitt hotel reflected the mood of the veterans, beginning their second day sessions of the 24th annual encampment: "Due to war conditions and out of respect for our men who are in the armed forces, there will be no demonstration outdoors and all hilarity will be dispensed with."

Business centered to a large extent on resolutions and legislation pertaining to the men now in service. State Commander William H. Bechtel, Jr., is not present at the convention but is serving as Red Cross field director in Guadalcanal.

SOLDIERS STILL PATROL DETROIT

(International News Service)

DETROIT, June 24.—As the 3,800 regulars of the U. S. Army maintain constant vigil from the heart of the Negro district to gates of the war plants, Detroit will be released today from curfew restrictions, Governor Harry F. Kelly predicted early this morning.

Oakland and Macomb counties were freed of all "state of emergency" restrictions this morning, leaving only Wayne county, which embraces Detroit, inside the curfew zone.

The city was quiet last night—although two more deaths brought the official death toll to 29—and the governor said he believes the tranquil conditions justify the lifting of the 10 p. m. "off-the-streets" ban.

"But the order may not apply just yet to saloons," continued the governor.

Anti-Strike Bill Action Awaited

Congress Fears President's Draft Proposal Means Veto Of Measure

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 24 — A troubled congress today awaited action by President Roosevelt on the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill before determining the fate of his proposal that existing "work or fight" machinery cover persons up to 65 years of age who strike in government - owned or operated plants.

Many members expressed fear that Mr. Roosevelt was advancing the proposal as a basis for meeting the demands of organized labor for a veto of the anti-strike bill now on his desk. With the deadline fixed at midnight tomorrow, the "work or fight" proposal meantime received cool treatment at the hands of the legislators.

Typical of the comments was the following by Rep. Harness (R) Ind., one of the participants in revising the Smith-Connally bill before its final passage:

"This looks like the groundwork

Planes Are Used To Lend Realism To Blackout Test

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Two flights of Flying Fortresses roaring over the eastern seaboard today had added a note of realism to a test blackout which plunged into darkness southeastern Pennsylvania, six eastern states and the District of Columbia.

Major General Ralph Royce, commanding general of the First Air Force, announced that 24 bombers took part in the 65-minute test, which caught air raid wardens totally unaware. Although several violations occurred both in homes and on the streets of the Quaker City, city officials said the test was "remarkably successful".

BOMBERS HIT PORT OF OLBIA

(International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 24—Several fires were started in the dock area of the North Sardinia Port of Olbia in a heavy new raid by Wellington bombers of the North African Air Force, an official communique announced today.

Aircraft of the coastal air force attacked and sank an Axis tanker.

The Wellington assault on Olbia was carried out Tuesday night, the communique said. Activity yesterday by other aircraft of the North African command was confined to patrolling and reconnaissance.

Two Allied craft were reported lost in the operations.

Report Italians Evacuate Island

German Radio Spreads Report Castel Rosso In Dodecanese Is Evacuated

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 24—Italian forces faced by the threat of Allied armed might in the Near East, have evacuated the Dodecanese island of Castel Rosso, the German overseas radio said today in a broadcast reported by Reuter's.

Other German reports meanwhile said there were numerous indications that plans were underway in North Africa for an invasion. A dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Allehanda from Berlin, reported by Reuter's, said that aerial photographs of African ports "show clear signs of invasion preparations."

Castel Rosso is the easternmost of the Dodecanese group in the Aegean sea. The island lies off the coast of Turkey 65 miles east of the island of Rhodes.

The German broadcasts said that reports on the evacuation emanated from Ankara, Turkey.

"Nothing is known of the supposed evacuation," the Nazis said.

"An Ankara correspondent reports the Allies may begin operations against the Dodecanese from Syria."

Recent temporary closing of the frontier between Turkey and Syria by British military authorities to cover troop movements in Syria resulted in swift Axis preparations to meet a possible Allied thrust from the Near East.

Germany reportedly sent troop reinforcements into the Balkans to guard against an assault on southeastern Europe and was said to

VOLUNTEERS TO CHECK PRICES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24 — The OPA today completed arrangements to turn over the authority of enforcement of price ceilings and point rationing rules to volunteers in the nine-county area of the Pittsburgh district.

Beginning next week, unpaid workers will begin investigations of violations and, except in serious cases, will be on the "neighbor-judge-neighbor basis, now used to enforce the pleasure driving ban.

Three to 15 volunteer community representatives will make up the price panels and are receiving special training in their duties by the OPA. The size of the panels depends upon the number of retail business establishments in a local board area.

DE VALERA WINS

(International News Service)

DUBLIN, June 24—Incomplete election returns today indicated Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail party has been returned to power in the general elections.

De Valera's bitter opponent, William T. Cosgrove, leader of the oppositionist Fine Gael party, apparently was re-elected a member of the Dail.

President Seeks New Authority To Draft Strikers

ASKS DRAFT AGE BE RAISED TO 65

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—President Roosevelt's proposed plan to halt further work stoppages by drafting into the army strikers in a government-operated plants or mines today was widely viewed as a substitute for the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill and an indication that he would veto the drastic measure.

The new government "work" order outlined by the president gave the nation's coal miners the choice of digging coal as civilians or in uniform and supplanted the four-month truce in the coal fields ordered by John L. Lewis' UMW policy committee.

The president, breaking a long silence on the paralyzing third coal strike which cost the nation more than 6,000,000 tons of fuel, also revealed that the mines "for the time being" will continue to be operated under government management by coal czar Harold L. Ickes.

The chief executive's statement came less than 24 hours after Lewis's UMW policy committee directed 540,000 miners to return to work until Oct. 31, on condition that the government retail control of the mines. Full scale production was anticipated today.

To Ask Raising Of Age Limit

Mr. Roosevelt said that since the draft law prevented induction of men above 45 into the armed services, he would ask congress to raise the age limit for non-combat military services to 65 years.

"I shall make that request of the congress so that if at any time in the future there should be a threat of interruption of work in plant, mines or establishments owned by the government or taken possession of by the government, the machinery will be available for prompt action," the president's statement said.

This would include Lewis who is 63 years old.

Rep. Ramspeck, Georgia, House Democratic whip, said that he was having the necessary bill drafted for introduction shortly but there was no assurance from either the Democrats or Republicans that Congress would enact the law.

Substitute For Bill

Mr. Roosevelt's statement of future policy as regards strikes in government-operated war plants was widely interpreted as a substitute for the drastic Smith-Connally anti-strike bill and was believed to pressage a veto of that measure by the president.

COFFEE RATION STAMP VALUE GIVEN BOOST

Pound Of Coffee In Three-Week Period Will Now Be Allowed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The office of price administration today boosted the value of the coffee ration stamp to a new all-time high of one pound for a three-week period.

The previous top value of the coffee stamp was hit this month when the ration value was one pound for a calendar month.

Coffee stamp No. 21, OPA said, becomes valid for one pound of coffee on July 1 and will expire on July 21. Stamp 22 can be used for the purchase of one pound of coffee during the period between July 22 and August 11.

Thus, each adult American will be able to buy two pounds of coffee in a six-week period.

The new action, OPA said, marks the first time since coffee rationing began that supplies have reached a normal level.

The move, OPA pointed out, is in line with a recent announcement that the public will receive benefits of any increases in coffee supplies. However, OPA said "any deterioration of the present favorable supply situation will again result in a cut in the coffee rations.

"Consumers must be prepared for such reductions whenever it is necessary," OPA stated.

Up until now, the usual value of the coffee stamp has been one pound in every five weeks. At one time when coffee stocks were dangrously low, the value of the coffee stamp slid to one pound in a six-week period.

Britain To Africa And Return Bombing Trips Are Launched

Germany Is Bombed On One Trip And Italy On Return Flight

Remarkable "Shuttle" Raid Schedule Carried Out Without Plane Loss

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 24. — Squadrons of four-motored British Lancaster bombers which went on to North Africa after hammering Friedrichshafen, Germany, Sunday night plastered the Italian naval base of Spezia with a heavy weight of bombs last night on their return flight to England, the air ministry announced today.

Heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force at the same time conducted a new attack against the airdrome at Comiso, Sicily, a communique from Cairo said. Bombs burst among airplane hangars and workshops, causing numerous fires. All of the British planes returned to their base in the middle east.

"Shuttle" Raids

The assault on Spezia, submarine building center, market the first employment against Italy of "shuttle" raids by allied bombers.

The feat of the Lancasters was remarkable in that not a single plane was lost in the raid Sunday night on Friedrichshafen or the assault on Spezia.

Although the base from which the British bombers took off in North Africa remained a secret, it was estimated that the Lancasters traversed a distance of 1,100 to 1,200 miles in returning to the base in England from North Africa.

Preparing Huge U. S. Arsenal In Alaskan Area

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 24 — Large scale expansion of the navy's aerial transport line into the Alaskan area provided proof today that the United States is building a gigantic arsenal in preparation for the eventual assault against Japan.

This was disclosed in connection with the commissioning in Seattle, Wash., of Squadron No. 5 of the Naval Air Transport Service.

The navy said the new squadron "will complete an intensive air transport service with landplanes into the Alaskan area, connecting naval establishments and outposts there with supply centers in the United States."

While American forces early in the war worked to build up the defenses in the North Pacific, during the past few months the high command has been showing an offensive hand in that vital area.

The navy said that the new squadron "is indicative of the increasing pace of the demand for communication lines into Alaska and the Aleutians brought on by expanded navy operations in that area."

Officials pointed out that during the past six months there has been a five-fold increase in the naval transport service by air.

"Further, it is expected that the trend of the navy for rapid transportation to support its operation in Alaska will result in more than doubling the present total naval and contract services by the end of the year," the navy said.

American Fliers Bomb Macassar

Jap Shipping Base On Island Of Celebes Is Hammered By Bombers

LONG FLIGHT IS MADE FOR RAID

By LEE VAN ATTA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 24.—America-manned Liberator bombers, in the second-longest raid flight of the war in the Pacific, blasted the major Japanese shipping base at Macassar, on the island of Celebes, with more than 38 tons of bombs, Allied headquarters announced today.

An enemy cruiser moored at the dock and a cargo vessel in the harbor burst into flames under direct hits as all types of bombs, from incendiaries to 2,000-pound blockbusters, wrought great destruction among docks and shipping and on the city itself.

During the height of the furious assault the lone Jap fighter plane which rose to meet the raiders locked wings with a Liberator and both crashed in the harbor. Despite heavy anti-aircraft fire from ship and shore batteries, all the other bombers returned to their base after the 2,000-mile round trip flight.

Fires Started

Fires kindled by the Yanks' bombs in the midday attack were visible for 70 miles. Numerous hits were scored on the big Juliana and Wilhelmina wharves, vital to Japanese supply lines from the Netherlands East Indies to Japan.

An Allied headquarters spokesman said the distance traversed by the Yank fliers was exceeded only by Liberators which flew 400 miles farther, from Hawaii, to bomb Japanese installations on Wake Island.

Macassar, largest city on Celebes, lies at the southwest tip of the island, some 200 miles from Jap-held Borneo, across the Macassar Straits. The city was bombarded by Allied warships and bombing planes in February of last year during the historic battle of Macassar Straits, which was followed by Japanese seizure of Java.

Allied Air Raids Halt Nazi Drive On Soviet Russia

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24—Secretary of War Stimson asserted today that diversion of German planes to meet the growing Allied air raids on Europe may be holding up the anticipated spring assault by the Nazis against Russia.

"It is probable that many enemy planes have been withdrawn from the Eastern front and that may be why Germany has not launched the summer offensive against Russia," Stimson told a news conference.

Speaking of the extraordinary lull on the long Russian front, Stimson said that despite several weeks of weather suitable for major operations there have been only comparatively minor clashes.

Arthur Mometer

Short days ago or was it weeks, the rain was falling thick and fast, and folks complained and groused a lot and wondered just how long 'twould last. Then came the sun and dried the earth and farmers plowed and sowed their seed, and now those folks who groused so much are arguing how much we need a fall of rain and not too hard, enough to soak the thirsty crops, the rutabagas and the kale, the brussels sprouts and hay and hops. It only proves that mortal man is always grousing, never done, we'll get the rain, and soon I hope, the weather's still at ninety-one.

Says Australia Had Close Call

Curtin Believes That Battle Of Australia Has Now Been Won, However

(International News Service)

CANBERRA, June 24.—American troops now based in the southwest and south Pacific war theater now are approximately equal in number to Australia's own forces, authoritative quarters revealed today.

United States air combat squadrons already slightly exceed those of the Royal Australian Air Force.

"The battle for Australia assuredly has been won just as was the battle of Britain," Prime Minister John Curtin declared.

Curtin was quick to emphasize, however, that his statement did not mean the Pacific war has been won yet.

"Some day," he said, "the Australian people will be told how close a call we had in New Guinea."

The prime minister said that all the heavy naval forces in the Pacific covering lines of communication to Australia are being provided by America.

"The American fleet at Hawaii has done what we expected the fleet based at Singapore to do," Curtin added.

of the Smith-Connally bill, objected to use of the draft law for "punishment of unpatriotic strikes," asserting that "a better solution would be cooperation by the president with the Congress for the adoption of adequate labor legislation."

In directing Ickes to continue federal control of the mines, Mr. Roosevelt overrode the protests of the coal operators who demanded return of their properties — seized by the government at the outset of the first coal strike, May 1.

Former Senator Edward R. Burke, spokesman for the southern coal operators, led a delegation which conferred with Marvin McIntyre, presidential secretary. Burke later told reporters:

"We do not think it is proper that the operators should have their property taken away and the miners' union be allowed to dictate terms under which they will work."

for a veto of the anti-strike bill. I certainly hope it isn't because this other proposal looks too much like "slave labor' for me."

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed his newest proposal in a statement late yesterday in which he assailed what he called the "intolerable" actions of the leaders of the United Mine Workers headed by John L. Lewis, in staging three walkouts from the coal mines.

The president noted that he had already set up machinery to carry out his order for the induction of any draft-eligible striker in a government-owned or operated plant, and he asked that the draft age be increased from 45 to 65 to implement that order.

While Lent really continues for more than six weeks, the reason we speak of it as "40 days" is that only 40 days are fast days. Sundays are not counted because they are feast days.

NEW PATTERN IN ALLIED BOMBING ATTACKS ON AXIS

to anyone. Announcement of the successful mission also proves a number of things:

1. The newly-developed Allied air fields in North Africa are now in a position to mount the most ambitious offensive actions in the book.

2. Supplies are reaching them in sufficient quantities to accommodate Britain-based bombers as well as Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's already formidable North African air force.

3. Italy's defenses have deteriorated to such an extent that Allied planes can fly over Premier Mussolini's domain almost with impunity. Bombers bereft of bomb and therefore incapable of doing damage are never sent over areas where they might be shot down with no enemy objectives destroyed in compensation.

The dramatic mission disclosed by the British air ministry opens up a great vista of augmented bombing attacks at a moment when it seemed impossible any larger undertakings could possibly be launched than the terrific British and American assaults of recent weeks which have ruined Germany's Ruhr.

It represented fulfilment of the air theorists' fondest dream. The time soon may come when similar tactics will be employed elsewhere. Gradual improvement of long-range bombers should make it possible before this war is over for planes to take off from Britain and land in Soviet Russia, for example, there to refuel and bomb up for equally devastating attacks on the homeward journey.

And in the Far East, such tactics eventually may spell the doom of Japan.

Consolidation of American gains in the Aleutian Islands will pave the way for aerial onslaughts against Japan, and when American bases have inched up sufficiently to the west, the day will arrive when Flying Fortresses and Liberators can streak across the face of the empire, dropping their bombs and then going on to land in China. On the Chinese mainland itself, American-built bases are now ready to receive these attackers and send them back to their initial airfields laden to capacity with new cargoes of death and destruction for the land of cherry blossoms, paper windows and double-dealing.

compromise, the union of the big farm organizations tended to solidify the opposition of "farm bloc" members.

Sens. Aiken (R) Vt., and Gillette (D) Iowa, led the "farm bloc" fight for an amendment to the Commodity Credit Corporation bill banning use of subsidies for "rollback" or reduction of maximum prices, with provisos permitting sale of wheat for feed at less than parity prices and allowing price supports on domestic vegetable fats and oils.

In the house Rep. Steagall (D) Ala., chairman of the banking committee, and Rep. Wolcott (R) Mich., sponsored a similar amendment. They sought approval of the banking committee before the house also opens debate on subsidies, with a vote expected tomorrow.

Senate administration forces backed the admendment of Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, which allows use of $500,000,000 for general subsidies until July 1, 1944, together with $175,000,000 to be used by the Commodity Credit Corporation and authority for continuation of transportation and strategic materials subsidies totaling $320,000,000 annually.

Proof that people are accustomed to honesty and truth is in the fact that a swindler's lies fool them.

richshafen and Spezia were seen as a prelude to a new pincers assault technique on both partners of the Axis now that the allies control the Mediterranean area.

Preliminary reports indicated that the docks at Spezia, 50 miles southeast of the bomb-battered port of Genoa, were well bombed.

Terrific Fires

Terrific oil fires were left burning at the naval base which was heavily hit recently by American Flying Fortresses which attacked from North Africa.

The furious cycle of allied aerial bombardments against Axis Europe continued in daylight today when large forces of allied aircraft crossed out over the English channel and headed toward the continent at breakfast time.

The heavily punished German Ruhr valley appeared to have been given a night's respite but the German radio reported that a few allied planes carried out "nuisance raids" during the night against towns in western Germany.

The Lancaster bombardment of Spezia followed new heavy raids by Wellington bombers of the North African air force on the port of Olbia, Sardinia, and heavy British bombers from the middle east on the airfield at Comiso, Sicily.

Several fires were started in the dock area of Olbia while the bombers from the middle east started numerous blazes among airplane hangars and workshops at Comiso.

Return Trip Raid

The initial communique on the Spezia raid said:

"The force of Lancasters which bombed Friedrichshafen on June 20 went on to North Africa and last night made the return journey to England, bombing the Italian naval base of Spezia en route without loss.

"It is now confirmed that three acres of the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen were devastated and the motor engineering works of the Maybach Werke company were damaged in the raid on the 20th which was made without loss."

The Americans had their inning against Spezia on June 5 when more than 100 United States Flying Forts from North Africa bombed three 35,000-ton Italian battleships, the Littorio, the Vitorio Veneto and the Roma, a heavy cruiser and cargo ship.

Heretofore when Royal Air Force planes have attacked Spezia they have had to make a round-trip flight across the Alps of 1,500 miles.

Nazi Reprisal Raid

A reprisal raid for the heavy British bombing of the Ruhr was carried out last night by 15 German bombers against the northeast coast port of Hull, 181 miles northeast of London. The Nazis dropped high explosives over a wide area of the port in the east riding area of Yorkshire.

The bombardment of Spezia heralded strong intervention in the battle of Italy forces of British bombers while the Germans still nursed severe wounds to the Ruhr industrial area.

German reports quoted by the Exchange Telegraph company said that the situation in he Ruhr was so serious that more than 3,000,000 persons must be evacuated from the devastated area by the end of the week.

May Bomb Rome

The attack on Spezia was made only a few hours after the Italians were warned by a British air commentator that Rome itself might become the target of allied bombs unless military objectives were removed and the Italian capital declared an open city.

Previously British authorities, particularly Capt. Harold Balfour, under-secretary of state for air, has said that Rome would be bombed if such attacks would speed the end of the war against the Axis.

The raid was conducted as an Exchange Telegraph company dispatch was received in London from Zurich quoting the newspaper Popolo D'Italia as admitting that six towns in the devastated coastal region south of the bomb-pocked port of Naples had been destroyed. The names of the localities were given as Poggio, Apernaccia, Reale, Porticio, Torre Del Greco and Torre Annunziata. The newspaper also acknowledged that production in southern Italy and on the island of Sicily had been reduced considerably because of general disorganization resulting from aerial assaults.

The air ministry said that none of its craft was lost in these operations but announced the destruction of two German Focke-Wulf 190 dive-bombers.

USE WHOLEWHEAT CRUMBS

Crumbs from wholewheat bread can be substituted for those from white bread in most instances very successfully. They make an especially delicious addition to apple scallop, giving it a rich flavor.

Guadalcanal Wednesday. We shot down 32 dive-bombers and 45 zeros and lost six of our intercepting force which almost equalled the attacking force. That rate of loss cannot be under-estimated.

Can't Sustain Losses

"The Japs can't produce planes to sustain losses ranging from three to 15 against 1, and the morale of their pilots must be seriously affected.

"I haven't exact figures available but the Japs have lost about 1,500 planes since last September. Every time a pilot fails to return the rest of the squadron is affected, Jap or no Jap. I wonder what those fellows have been thinking this past week."

Admiral Fitch, while loath to underestimate the enemy, said our pilots definitely are superior in technique and said he was highly pleased with the teamwork of all branches of the service, including our New Zealand Allies.

On the admiral's desk as we talked reposted a printed motto recently sent him by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet. It said:

"The Lord gave us two ends to use; one to think with and one to sit with. The war depends on which we choose. Heads we win—tails we lose."

announced another defeat of Japanese ground forces in the Muba area of New Guinea. The Japs lost 64 men in the second attack on Allied positions on Lababia ridge in as many days. Allied losses were described as "negligible".

A heavy bomber on reconnaissance attacked the enemy airdrome at nearby Lae.

"Crocodile tears" are hypocritical tears or pretended grief. This phrase alludes to an old myth that crocodiles would moan and sigh like distressed human beings in order to lure travelers within their reach. There also used to be a belief that crocodiles would shed tears over their prey as they devoured it.

A London physician first described hay fever in 1819 when it was called summer catarrh.

JAPS ATTEMPT TWO ATTACKS ON U. S. WARCRAFT

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24—Two unsuccessful Japanese air attacks against small American warships in the Guadalcanal area were reported today by the navy.

On the night of June 20, a light U S surface unit was attacked by a Japanese plane off Savo Island. On the night of June 22, two U. S. patrol craft were strafed in the vicinity of the Russell Islands.

Text of the navy's 422nd communique of the war follows:

"South Pacific: ((All dates are East Longitude.)

"On June 20, during the night, a U. S. light surface unit was unsuccessfuly attacked by a Japanese plane in the vicinity of Savo Island.

"On June 22-23, during the night, two U. S. patrol craft was unsuccessfully attacked by a Japanese float plane in the vicinity of the Russell Island."

SENATOR GUFFEY IS WELL ROASTED

Target For Attacks At Republican Dinner In Pittsburgh Last Night

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—It was quite obvious today that chicken wasn't the only thing fried during last night's "feast of Belshazzar" which was held by prominent Pittsburgh Republicans. Senator Joseph F. Guffey was well roasted, too.

M. Harvey Taylor, Pennsylvania state chairman and never the one to sit idly by when Guffey makes cracks about the grand old party, let loose with the chief broadside of the evening.

"Mt. Vesuvius Guffey is erupting again," declared Taylor as he dove into his $3.75 a plate dinner.

Commenting on Guffey's charges in the Senate earlier in the week that the GOP was raising campaign money by holding an $8,000 a plate meal, Taylor said:

"If Joe the wirepuller is getting so jittery about the fourth term that he can make a Belshazzar feast out of a common variety chicken dinner, it shows how freely crackpot ideas generate in the minds of the New Deal brain trusters."

Warming up to his subject, the Republican leader continued: "Guffey is the stame senator who distinguished himself as Pennsylvania's outstanding tax dodger while reportedly making millions in Mexican oil deals.

"This is the same senator whose political machine has been charged with putting the squeeze on thousands of Pennsylvania's postmasters and making them pay the freight for Democratic love feasts."

Was that all? "No," concluded Taylor with a parting shot, "as a New Deal block buster, Guffey is strictly a dud".

Theta-Nu Club

Theta-Nu club members enjoyed a hamburg fry in the picnic grove of Cascade park Wednesday evening, with Miss Florence Thompson hostess in charge.

A tasty menu was prepared and served by Miss Thompson with Mrs. J. A. Walters aiding. As a highlight the group shewered Mrs. Clarence Connors with an array of hankies as a farewell courtesy. She will leave shortly for Cleveland, O., to spend the summer months. Informal pastimes ensued.

The next event will be a tureen dinner at Cascade park on Thursday, July 29.

'SHORT STORY'

FOR LADIES ONLY

THIS STORY TAKES PLACE AT THE LADIES STORE, 108 E. WASHINGTON ST., NEW CASTLE, PA.

We need not describe the place to you, for most of our readers are well acquainted with its location.

SO—ON WITH THE STORY. We had anticipated a BIG COAT and SUIT BUSINESS IN JUNE, but it never came. With the result that we found ourselves STUCK with over 300 GARMENTS.

"WE CAN'T PICKLE THEM" and we can't keep them either, for we need the room for our winter coats and suits that are already coming in.

SO—WE MUST UNLOAD THESE 300 GARMENTS, regardless of the LOSS we will have to take in doing so. THAT'S THE STORY and WE GOT THE JOB TO DO. With apologies to Red Skelton, WE ARE GOING TO DOOD IT.

ONE GROUP OF COATS AND SUITS are going on SALE AT ONLY $10.00—NOT ONE EVER SOLD FOR LESS THAN $18.75; some as high as $22.50.

The second group to go on sale at $15.00 takes in the cream of our better COATS and SUITS. And what a value they are; Some garments in the group sold as high as $29.50.

In this selection you will find NAVYS, BLACKS, BROWNS, TWEED, PLAIDS, DRESSY AND SPORT STYLES. Sizes to fit most everyone from 10 to 44.

We know this is not the weather to be wearing a SPRING COAT or suit, BUT . . . we are making it the WEATHER for you to BUY ONE so you will have it when the cool weather does warrant it.

We sincerely feel that we are giving you some "good advice" by asking you to come down to our store this week and invest in one of these garments, for we can not promise you a real opportunity like this again. We'll be seeing you.

STEWART DIAMOND
IT TURNED A MAN'S MIND
Of all the goliaths in stones to come out of South Africa, the Stewart is perhaps the most famous river stone. The rough diamond, weighing 296 carats, was found at Waldeck's plant on the Vaal River in 1872. The finder went out of his mind for three days, and could do nothing but laugh and cry, tossing the stone up in the air and catching it again like a child. It was reduced to a beautiful brilliant of 123 carats, and is now owned in England.

MORE ARE COMING

THE pay-as-you-go tax bill is now a law. President Roosevelt has signed it. On June 15, the ordinary run-of-the-mine income tax payer, and the designation includes most of us, paid his second quarterly installment of taxes, his last payment of that kind. The money applies to his 1943 income taxes. Three-fourths of his 1942 taxes have been "forgiven" and he is to pay the unforgiven 25 per cent in two installments, in 1944 and 1945. Athough three-fourths of his taxes have apparently been "forgiven" they have been raised rather than lowered, if we consider the amount of money he has to pay. He will pay as much in 1943 as he would have under the old system, and in the next two years will pay an additional 25 per cent, all of this of course in addition to current taxes.

The advantage of the new system is of course that we will pay our income taxes as we go along out of current earnings, instead of getting the bill the following year when the money is spent. Furthermore the government will collect from those who formerly have "settled" their obligations by merely making the statement they had no money and couldn't pay.

But now that this pay-as-you-go-system is arranged the statesmen are already looking around for ways and means to raise more money by taxation. We are still far short of paying what we should of the war bill out of the nation's current earnings.

President Roosevelt intimated that he would shortly recommend to Congress the necessity of finding more money for financing the war effort. He said he still opposed the sales tax because it would hit the poor of the country and most people fall in that category. But nobody has yet been able to devise a method of taxes which would not hit the poor either directly, indirectly, or both. We have only to recall the famous statement which Mr. Roosevelt made in 1932 when he was running for President the first time, a statement to the effect that taxes are paid in the sweat of the worker's brow. That is as true now as it was in 1932 and there is no way of getting away from it. With the wealthier classes already paying 90 per cent of their income in taxes it is evident that those who are not paying so great a portion will have to be tapped further.

The President is quoted as saying that higher taxes on liquor and tobacco might be one way to help close the inflationary gap. This is true. But such taxes are only sales taxes limited in scope and they certainly will fall on the poor harder than on the rich.

Men in Congress are loath to raise the income tax rates in view of the fact that the new "forgiveness" tax has already boosted taxes for the two years. But new taxes will have to be found. We cannot avoid them.

WHEAT NEWS IS BETTER

Latest reports are that estimates as to the size of the Kansas wheat crop will undoubtedly undergo revision upward. A month ago the guessers placed the crop at between 150,000,000 and 160,000,000 bushels. Wheat had just emerged from a trying month and didn't give promise of a crop that would cause farmers to enthuse.

But since then this diet staple has demonstrated its ability to thrive despite drought, winds, freezes and insects. First reports from Kansas wheat fields that have been harvested show that the cereal is turning out more bushels per acre than was anticipated. This gain spread over Kansas' vast wheat fields will make the 150,000,000-bushel guessers revise their last figures, grain men say. Of course, not all fields will beat estimates or a bumper crop would be in sight.

Reports from Barber county, first to send the combines through the yellow grain, showed 25-bushel yields. Now comes a report from Sumner county that wheat so far harvested has averaged better than 20 bushels to the acre, when a lower yield was expected. Next to victories over the Axis, news of increased crop yields is the best news Americans can read in their newspapers in this year of 1943.

THE PACIFIC AGE

America reached its industrial greatness during an era that might be termed the Age of the Atlantic. Heaviest trade was with nations across the ocean to the east. Many industrial ideas and processes came from there. Now Europe is badly battered. America has reached self-sufficiency as an industrial nation. From now on, under plans that are being formulated, the United States is to contribute to the rise of other industrial nations. China's grandiose plans suggest that the Age of the Pacific may be dawning.

Chinese spokesmen, in the United States as a result of the almost forgotten food conference at Hot Springs, Va., say they look forward to adding cotton to China's list of exportable commodities. Doctor Kuo, leader of the delegation, says this is a long-term view, and that development of such a goal would be a gradual process. At any rate, it was generous of him to warn the cotton growers of the South.

America is assuming an important position in China's post-war trade objectives for both imports and exports, Doctor Kuo said. A general intensification of the trade which prevailed between the two countries before the war seemed to be to Doctor Kuo's liking.

A ten-year program for improving China's transportation system would call upon a rather generous importation of American machinery and rail equipment, he said. This would taper off as the nation increased its own industrial activity.

At the present time, and for the first few post-war years, U. S. aid to China would be most effective in the form of technicians and scientists skilled in agricultural production, Doctor Kuo opines.

They say that one way to get wise is to listen. But it depends somewhat on the guy who is doing the talking.

A machinegun small enough to fit into a woman's handbag has been invented. One of the planks in the peace treaty should call for retirement of these from circulation.

Crops may be the poorest in three years, the United States Department of Agriculture fears. But mere reference to the poorest American crops in three years must make the Nazi's mouth water.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD'S PLACE IN HOME RULE

A truly democratic home is one in which each member respects the personality of every other and strives to bring out the best in every other person of the family.

To have this type of home the parents must be companionable and co-operative. Each should try to understand the other by putting himself in his imagination in the other's place. Both should have the same attitude toward the children and they in turn toward their parents.

All Have Voice

Every citizen of the state is allowed, even expected, to express his wishes about the rules for governing the entire group. Since the group is so large, representatives are selected to draw up these rules and other representatives to execute them and to see that justice and deserved liberty is had by all.

To date, our democracy has held that those who are under 21 years of age, the mentally incompetent and the criminals are not fit to take responsibility for being these representatives or choosing them.

Certainly in the family, the child may be able to assume considerable responsibility for his own liberty while also protecting and promoting the welfare of his family long before he is 21.

Obviously, the nature and degree of responsibility increases with his age, education and experience. It rests with the parents to decide just what responsibility he may assume. In the truly democratic home, the child is allowed, even required, to assume all these duties as soon as he proves able.

Test Of Democracy

Until the parents of the truly democratic family are sure the child is ready to assume a certain responsibility they find effective ways to make him do things he should do and deterring him from doing things he shouldn't do.

A test of democracy is in the parent's wisdom in these matters. Another test is in how well the growing child learns to respect the rights and feelings of his parents and other members of the family.

In an ideally democratic state, all its citizens obey its laws. In an ideally democratic home, children obey their parents and the rules of the family these children have helped make. No one in a really democratic family imposes on anybody else. All share, therefore, in the chores, drudgeries and duties.

THE AGE QUESTION

Said Crankmire as we chatted:
"I am sixty-one or three,
I never have been certain of my birthday, as you see.
There's a cousin says I'm older;
there's an aunt who says I'm not;
She insists to give me welcome
she was right upon the spot.
There's an uncle who knows better, and a sister with a book
Which will prove beyond all cavil
I am older than I look.

"There's a friend of ours who's known us since eighteen
ninety-three;
She's very sure about my age;
she went to school with me
She vows I'm under sixty, but the others make it known
She cuts my age a little that she may reduce her own.
There's a dear, devoted neighbor
who my birth date can provide.
'He was born,' she says, 'the evening of the day my uncle died.'

"It's a family discussion which goes
on and on and on,
That they'll ever reach agreement
hope is absolutely gone.
Since my mother wasn't certain,
and my father couldn't say,
And a fire destroyed the records,
and the parson moved away.
If my age should be important, as to some it seems to be,
Take your choice from those who know it—sixty-one or two or three."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

Well of course if you want to, you can believe that Hitler or the Ku Klux Klan or both stirred up the Detroit race riot.

But if you want to be strictly factual and accurate you will turn back the pages of your photo album a couple of years.

You will see the overturned automobiles, the mobs, the maniacs with the clubs, the broken heads, the fleeing men just as you saw such things in the pictures this week.

The differences are that nobody suggested then that Hitler or the KKK was promoting the riot; there was no proclamation, order or suggestion from Washington that the rioters disperse and go home; and it wasn't a color riot.

It was the scene outside the Ford plant during the big strike there and don't tell me it wasn't because I was there.

If you like you can turn back still further—to 1937 when the sit-down strike introduced rule by mob in Detroit and Washington said "everything's all right—the boys are within their rights."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight, 8:32; sun rises tomorrow, 5:32.

When a woman is always cleaning and sweeping around the house it looks as if she thinks there are dirty people around.

Being forced to save is the hardest kind of saving.

We must do things in this country that will make our boys like to come home. Do your best to help them.

In Washington most every day we hear of some high up tell some other high up to go to hell, but they don't go.

Another need of the times is something for a chain smoker to stick in his mouth when he doesn't really want a smoke.

It has been demonstrated that a shotgun or any other kind of a gun is not a good thing for children to play with.

The New Deal can always dig up many things to boast about, but one of them isn't a treasury surplus.

Man is seldom impartial in his judgment of himself.

One of the many blessings bestowed upon those born in this country is that they learn to speak American at home as a matter of course and are not confused by its intricacies and vagaries as are those who attempt to learn it in later life.

In World war I, a Poilu and a Yank became quite friendly and the Yank offered to help him to learn to speak American . . . saying he would correct his written work. Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for sometime, but finally a letter came, couched in the following choice words:

"In small time I can learn so many English from his text-book and her dictionary as I think I will to come at the America and to go on the scafford to lecture."

Experience dispels illusion.

Rover seems to be a good name for dogs.

A sailor has been credited with this bright saying: "I was in a phone booth talking to my girl when some one wanted the phone and we had to get out."

Even when a law has teeth in it, there must be somebody to make it bite.

ANSWERING CURIOUS CYNIC . . .

. . . the fur seal accumulates as many as 150 wives . . . seal is the wrong name, he should have been called a wolf.

. . . you may have noticed it too, but no one seems to have the courage to select any one woman and call her an Average American Woman.

. . . we used to hear that 'gentlemen prefer blonds'—the real truth is that most gentlemen's preference is 'red heads'

. . . the road to success is filled with women pushing their husbands along.

People cannot have much respect for a person who tells a big lie, when a little lie would have answered the purpose.

Trucks are now being made that will run on land and water. Trucks that would not hit a telegraph pole would also be a good thing.

Think as much as you talk or talk as little as you think.

One conclusion arrived at by the secret food conference was that people do require food to sustain life and that food will either win or lose the war, depending on who gets it.

In some places campaigns are being put on to collect junk jewelry. That ought to bring in a big pile of stuff.

STRETCHING THE POINT

We've been expecting this old-timer to show up pretty soon, and here it is:

He had never been outside the United States, and neither had she, but both were recounting their experiences abroad.

"And Asia. Ah, Asia, wonderful Asia. Never shall I forget. Turkey, India—all of them. And most of all China, the celestial kingdom. How I loved it!"

"And the pagodas—did you see them?"

She held her ground.

"Did I see them?" She powdered her nose. "My dear, I had dinner with them."

Husbands are like automobiles. If you take care of them you don't have to be getting new ones all the time.

It's a good idea to carry your own packages home from the stores, no matter what rules there are about such things.

The man who can originate ideas is usually the master.

IS CONCEIT AN ASSET?

"Do you think conceit is an asset or a liability? It seems to me that egotistical people derive great pleasure from thinking that they are superior, even though they really are not?" — B. B. G.

Answer: Off hand, it would seem that conceit is a rare gift of the gods. An egotistical person of mediocre appearance or even homely features finds her mirrored reflection a joy to behold. She idealized herself to the extent that she thinks she is a rare treat to every onlooker.

I still think, however, that it is a social liability. Although conceited people may derive unlimited pleasure from their illusion of grandeur, they so bore everyone with whom they come in contact that they soon lose their popularity.

Is there anything more annoying than a homely woman bragging about her conquests—reiterating constantly how every man stares at her in wide-eyed admiration? Another item on the liability side of the egotistical-minded. They live in constant fear that they will not get the attention they think they deserve—that they will not be the center of attraction.

Invariably they are failures because they build themselves for a grand let-down. They imagine they have talents they do not possess.

Since they do not realize their limitations, they overstep their bounds with resultant unhappiness because they are not appreciated.

Self-assurance, tempered with a modicum of modesty, is the happy medium between conceit and an inferiority complex.

Question: When a boy and girl have met and then returned to their homes in distant towns, may the girl, correctly start up a correspondence?—B. B.

Answer: Let the boy take the initiative, unless he is in the service and has especially asked you to write to him.

Tomorrow: Displaying Public Anger.

SENATOR GLEAN TELLS US:

You, like all other Americans, are operating with the government and the co-telephone company by curtailing the use of long distance calling; at least, are restricting your conversations to brief necessary messages.

Most of us are cooperating because we have been asked to do so to help the War Effort . . . to keep the lines clear for important war messages and also to keep the lines clear for any soldiers who wish to call home.

Because we have been patriotic, many Americans will be surprised to learn that Senator Byrd's investigation reveals how two . . . just two . . . government bureaucratic agencies are making use of the phone.

The telephone bill of the WPB over a six months' period averages a cool million dollars. The OWI spends just double that over a six months' period, or an average of over four million dollars a year.

Six million dollars a year for telephone calls for just two bureaucratic departments. Now multiply that figure by the total of active and vocal bureaus in Washington . . . just the bureaus in Washington alone . . . and you'll get some rough idea of where some of our tax money is going.

The strickers distributed to motorists classifying them as 'A' or 'B' ration card holders all bear this blunt query on the back: "Is this trip REALLY necessary?"

Perhaps it would help a little if each phone in each governmental department had a small printed message above the transmitter with these words, "Is this call necessary?"

If a test were necessary, we'd suggest that the OPA try out the signs for a week to see if it does not reduce the number of unnecessary calls.

On second thought though, we have an idea that no one in that department or any other bureaucratic department would pay one bit of attention to it. Indeed, it might have just the opposite effect . . . increasing the number of calls. Or, am I becoming too cynical?

It is claimed that a highball in a Hollywood club contains scarcely enough liquor to color the water. Oh, wham do doodle wham!

One day we hear there is to be a scarcity of liquor and the next day we hear there will be enough. Often very little is enough.

A Pittsburgh woman in her divorce suit claims her husband drove her down to the river in his car and told her to jump into it. Many a woman would have thrown him into the water.

Probably twice in a lifetime would be often enough to have an appetite for pickled pigs feet. No ears at all, please.

Physicians say one million women are overweight. These, of course, are just round figures.

Race prejudice is not one-sided. Over 3000 Negroes struck because they objected to white foremen.

We are all self-centered, and nobody can concentrate on the woes of the world when his stomach hurts.

ONE TO FIT

Dave, having had a good week, decided to buy his wife a present. He picked up the dining-room table, carried it out of the house, put it on top of his head, and was ambling down the road when Bill Smith met him.

"Hullo, Dave," said Bill, "are you moving?"

"No," replied Dave, "I'm going to buy Mabel a tablecloth."

All the world loves a lover—if he is young. Otherwise he is just a nasty old man.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Chairman Sol Bloom of the house of representatives' foreign relations committee seems to me to understand the European Axis powers as they are fully comprehended by no other statesman in this country. Probably he has no equal in England, either. For that matter, he is not ignorant of the Jap angle of the Axis triangle. However, his acquaintance with the Orient is not as intimate as his familiartiy with our Occidental foes. He does not contend that it is.

Sol is an outright mind-reader among the Italians, though, as similarly he is a wizard in his reckonings as to the Germans and such neighbors as may be more or less affiliated with the latter.

The New York congressman, be it understood, has been, for a long time, a very rich man. He has had the financial resources to do all the overseas visiting he had a fancy for. But he had not the inclination to do it on a "sassiety" basis. His idea was to pay his fare and hotel bills and get genuinely in touch with the folk he was calling on. This is a very different thing from mixing with them in ballrooms and at miscellaneous diplomatic gatherings. Sol was not a plenipotentiary. He was strictly unofficial and made contacts impossible to an accredited government representative.

Once, he told me about a characteristic incident.

He has a daughter, Miss Vera Bloom, who, just after World War I, developed an ambition to break into the "feature-writing" news field. Since she was young and journalistically inexperienced, editors were reluctant to bargain with her. Still Vera persisted.

Finally, one of the feature-news agencies, long one of her targets, hit on the idea of offering to Miss Bloom an assignment that she would recognize was too much for her—and then the editor figured, he would get some relief.

It was in the era of Gabriele d'Annunzio, then Italy's immediate post-war "big man." Gabriell was

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED

An organization known as the Citizens Bureau of Governmental Research, Inc., of New York state, recently has completed an analysis of federal agencies and the executive structure created to deal with the war and its problems.

The research and the resulting analysis were prompted, the report says, by the fact that New York State's share of federal expenditures for one year of war "is more than the entire market value of its real estate, urban and rural." The same is true of other states, of course, and for that reason, among others, the report should be in the hands of every responsible state official in the country.

In addition to the monetary consideration involved in the nation's war effort, the New York organization points out that "the number of men who will return safe is a figure geared to war production and other operations of the central management in Washington."

The New York Bureau first looked into the matter of federal executive organization set up to handle war problems. The result was not pretty. Instead of finding a streamlined, efficient structure of simplified, speedy management, which one naturally might expect from an administration that has so carefully alluded to many of our existing governmental institutions as belonging to the horse and buggy age, the bureau found a tangle of lines leading out from the President's office, on the organization chart, that well might serve as a pattern for a spider web.

Naturally, in directing a war, the President must have broad executive powers. Nobody denies this. Moreover, to operate efficiently an executive — any executive — must limit the number of subordinates with whom he has to deal. In this regard the President's own committee on administrative management, in its first report submitted to him on last September 2, said: "The number of immediate subordinates with whom an executive can deal effectively is limited . . . In the Army it has been said to be three subordinates; in business it has frequently been set at five or six; and some students of government have placed the limit at ten or twelve."

Regardless of which figures one may regard as nearly ideal, it is a far cry from the existing chart of federal management which lists eighty-one separate and distinct departments each directly responsible to Mr. Roosevelt. If that were all there is to it, one might say that Mr. Roosevelt could select the half dozen or dozen agencies most directly concerned with the war and let the others more or less run themselves. But it isn't that simple

The Sagging Home Front

WASHINGTON, June 24.

THE WARNING of five Democratic Senators that the home front is dangerously sagging, coupled with a request that WMB Director Byrnes stop referring to intergovernmental disputes and do something about it, merely says again what a good many others have been saying for a long time. The fact is it is impossible longer to ignore the crisis at which things have arrived in the Washington management of the war.

SUCCESS OF our armed forces abroad makes the partial collapse and terrible confusion at home a shameful contrast. Everybody concedes that, despite Administration handicaps, the army and American industry have done a fine job. But no one, except the paid propagandists, feels that things go well in other directions. These are simple statements of fact. So far as the home front is concerned, the evidence of incompetency is overwhelming. Of course, the most spectacular failure is in the field of labor relations, where the refusal of the Administration to develop a firm policy, or allow Congress to enact regulating laws, has permitted a two-year series of costly strikes, culminating in the present coal-mine situation.

WHATEVER THE ultimate outcome of that, it must be clear that the responsibility rests upon an administration which weakly temporized, conciliated and compromised. But even more appalling is the state in which the Food Administration has gotten. Months ago the President belatedly appointed Mr. Chester Davis Food Administrator. Mr. Davis is a good man and there was much hope that at last there would be intelligent direction in this vital business. But the hope waned when it developed that Mr. Davis had been given responsibility without power. Hope died when Mr. Davis was not put on the War Mobilization Board. It is now clear that Mr. Davis has not been able to form an effective food policy, because he has lacked full control of the agencies dealing with the food problem.

IT IS not surprising that he is reported on the edge of resigning. Pleas to the President from Democratic members of Congress to make Mr. Davis or someone else a real food czar have been as ineffectual as the recommendations of Mr. Herbert Hoover. Soon or late, the President will have to do exactly that, but the delay adds to the dangers. Considering the warning and the evidences of the food shortage, the long procrastination in dealing with so immensely important a question seems almost incredible. Nor are some of the names mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Davis reassuring. What the President has done—and is still doing—is to evade

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

One of the silliest controversies I have ever heard of is that affair in Detroit where the office girls in the Ford Plant refused to come to work in slacks.

The management, according to the reports, had ordered slacks as the standard garb for women workers and refused to give its stenographers and clerks any work to do when they appeared in dresses and suits.

It was a safety measure for those with jobs out in the shops, said the bosses—skirts and frills are liable to get caught in the gear, and the order was made to apply to all in the plant.

"Nonsense," said the girls with office jobs, "what gears are there in typewriters to get caught in?"

There's altogether too much interference with people's individualities, I think.

Why can't we let folks do as they want to do, dress as they want to dress, live as they want to live?

What's wrong with sweaters? Yet what a hullaballoo was made about them in Hollywood recently!

One employer says slacks are indecent, another claims the same for dresses.

As long as the girls do their work why can't we leave them alone?

Who is so holy, who is so perfect that he is qualified to regulate the lives of others?

Let us say a girl is very beautiful. Let us say that men look at her. Let us say they stop work and whistle.

That won't last long. Pretty soon they get used to her and they'll work so much the harder because there is beauty around.

You don't have to yield to temptation. You don't have to get drunk because there are saloons all over the town.

You don't have to chase after a girl just because she wears a tight-fitting sweater.

I have no sympathy with any society that makes laws based on weakness.

Let's make laws for the strong. The weak will fall by the wayside, anyway.

Just because there are a few ogglers, leerers and whistlers around that doesn't mean that we have to put all beauty in sackcloth and ashes.

I know quite a few reformers. And I've noticed that they are usually the first ones to peep.

Secretary Stimson Reveals U. S. Army Casualties Since Pearl Harbor

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Total American army casualties since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor were set at 63,958 dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war today by Secretary of War Stimson.

At a news conference Stimson said that the total included 7,528 killed in action or dead from wounds; 17,128 wounded; 22,687 missing, and 16,615 officially listed as prisoners of war by Japan, Germany and Italy.

The secretary said that many of those listed as wounded already have returned to duty, and that an unknown number of missing may be presumed to be prisoners of war, but not reported through official channels.

Must Expect More

"While our casualties have been heavy, it is certain that in all theaters in which American forces operated, enemy losses were much greater than our own," Stimson stated.

He warned, however, that as more American troops go into action "very heavy casualties may be expected."

Stimson described the Philippine campaign as "the most expensive in the war." He said that, of the 31,610 casualties in that theater, many must be presumed to be prisoners of war.

In the final days on Bataan, Stimson declared that many wounded either died on the battlefield or were removed to other areas. Consequently, he said, many army personnel in the Philippines still are listed as missing in action.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Writes Victory Song

(International News Service)

SEATTLE — Nine-year-old Jimmy O'Donnell has written a new victory song, words and music, as follows:

"When the war is over,
When the boys come marching home,
When the tanks come rolling in,
When the planes come flying in,
When our boys come marching home—
Peace! To this good land of ours,"

Jimmy, who is about to go into the fifth grade, didn't write the song as a school project or required subject.

He just "had to put it on paper."

So Pvt. Robert L. Braswell discovered when he donned red, white and blue sox received as a gift from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Braswell of Napa, Cal.

Braswell started to leave the field and was getting along okay until a sharp-eyed MP stopped him.

"You can't wear those things, buddy," the MP said after recovering his breath. "It's against regulations. Get back into G. I."

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The State Board of Pardons today heard the third commutation appeal of Antonio Sampieri, 72, of Erie county, convicted in 1932 of slaying his wife with a sashweight.

He has been imprisoned in the Western State Penitentiary for more than nine years. His counsel, Paul L. Hutchison, of Harrisburg, said that Sampieri was suffering from diabetes and has only one leg, but the Erie county district attorney's office opposed a parole.

SEVENTH WARD

LOYAL WORKERS CLASS

On Friday evening the Loyal Workers class of the Madison Avenue Christian church will be entertained at the home of Miss Sue Park, 205 East Cherry street.

BEATS GAS RATIONING

With stringent gasoline rationing in force and a ban on automobile pleasure driving, mamma resorted to the bicycle on Wednesday afternoon and gave her little boy a nice ride around Liberty park.

KNITTING CLUB TO MEET

Mrs. W. C. Shanafelt of 405 West Madison avenue will be hostess on Friday evening to the Seventh Ward Knitting club, taught by Mrs. Maurice Boyd.

AIRMAN TRANSFERRED

Mr. and Mrs. Marion C. Hall of 24 North Cedar street have received word that their son, Private M. C. Hall, Jr., attached to the air corps, has been transferred from Washington, D. C., to Laredo, Texas.

BENCHES APPRECIATED

It can be seen that folks are enjoying the comfort of the park benches that have been returned by the city authorities to Liberty park for the summer and fall season. The trees in the park afford splendid shade.

NEW AWNING

Wednesday afternoon workmen were putting up a new awning for the store at the corner of Wabash and Liberty street. The hot sun of the past few days has made an awning on the west side of the street quite necessary.

CANNNIG NEW PEAS

Francis Harding of the Mt. Jackson road harvested a bushel of new peas from off his vines in his victory garden Wednesday. The pods were well filled. Canning of peas is going on at the Harding home today. The rest of the garden is also doing fine.

MACHINIST INJURED

Flore Nemeth, aged 57 years, of 585 Sixth avenue, Koppel, employed as a machinist at the B. & O. railroad, is undergoing treatment in the Jameson Memorial hospital. Nemeth received a crushed third finger on the left hand at the local shops on Wednesday.

PARAMARINE GRADUATES

Private First Class Robert Hake, is here on eight days furlough, visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hake, of R. D. 7, Mahoningtown. He recently graduated from the Paramarine Training school, Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C.

WELLER TRANSFERRED

Private Manning W. Weller of Camp Swift, Tex., one of the teachers at camp special training school has been transferred to Camp Bowie, Brownswood, Tex., for the same work. Private Weller was formerly of the Weller Hardware store and son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Weller of Clenmore boulevard.

NOW WARRANT OFFICER

Samuel Woods, attached to U. S. navy, who has been in the service about 18 years, was recently promoted from chief pharmacist mate to warrant officer. He is in charge of the construction of a hospital base on one of the islands of the southern Pacific. Woods is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Charles Woods of 111 East Clayton street. Sam is in good health.

WAR GARDENER

Charles J. Bernhart of 601 North Liberty street, accompanied by his faithful dog "Peggy", can be seen making two trips daily to Mr. Bernhart's war garden in "Rabbits Rest" plot of ground near the B. & O. railroad tracks. These hot days Peggy looks somewhat fatigued on her return trips. Mr. Bernhart also has a garden at his home which is coming along splendidly.

LIGHTNING SPLITS TREE

On the Cleland Mill road, North Beaver township, at Lawrence Black's place, across the road from J. C. McMillin's, the latter noticed something unusual about a white oak tree about 75 feet high. The trunk had been split about eight inches within the bark almost from top to bottom, leaving a space of a few inches as if cut with a super knife. This was done during the last electric storm, stated Mr. Black, and his son Richard, sitting in the house about 100 feet away, was knocked off the chair, and the father, cutting wood in the yard, was also stunned.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Anthony Marino of R. D. 7, Mahoningtown, has entered the New Castle hospital for a minor operation.

Lieut. Allen Harper Killed In Action

Lieut. Allen Harper, age 30, son of Mr and Mrs. Percy V. Harper of Zelienople, has been killed in convoy service of the United States Navy, according to word received here. Lieutenant Harper was a nephew of E. F. G. Harper and Dr. H. C. Harper of this city and a first cousin of Maj. Edwin R. Harper who was killed in the South Pacific.

Lieutenant Harper resided in Waterford, Pa., with his wife and two children. He was a graduate of Westminster college, class of 1935, and while there was active in athletics.

COUNCIL TO VIEW PROPOSED GIFT

Solicitor Robert W. White today in council at city hall advised council that if the city desired to accept a deed from Dr. Thomas Shaffer for a lot on Huron avenue across from the entrance to the armory and Cascade park and it was used for park purposes the lot would be exempt from taxation. Council proposes to view the property before accepting the deed.

Seabee Float Will Be Here On Friday

Chief Of Pittsburgh Recruiting Station Will Accompany Float To New Castle

A campaign for the enrollment of volunteers for service in the Navy's Construction Battalion — the Seabees — has been launched by Chief Frank J. Andrews, of the Pittsburgh navy recruiting station, will be in New Castle Friday, June 25, to enroll volunteers from this area and to distribute pamphlets and information concerning the Seabees—what they are and the type of work they are doing, and who is eligible for enrollment.

Chief Andrews states that youths of 17 and men 38 to 50 years of age are eligible for district enlistment, while men in the draft age group, 18 to 37, can volunteer through their draft boards.

The army offers similar opportunities with the army engineers.

Salaries, Mr. Andrews adds, range from $54 to $126 a month, plus 20 per cent for overseas duty and in addition include quarters, food, clothing, transportation, medical and dental care and other incidentals provided all enlisted personnel of the navy, plus allowances for dependents. Advanced petty officer ratings may be assigned depending upon the experience and qualifications of applicants.

Chief Andrews in urging enlistments from this area, points out that there is an increasing need for Seabees. He said:

"This is a call to patriotic men who want to use their skill as workers to help us win this war. Mechanics, carpenters, electricians, shovel and crane operators, pipefitters, steelworkers, welders, riggers, draftsmen, surveyors and other construction workers—all are needed to help build bases for our fighting men."

The Seabee float will visit various sections of New Castle Friday with Chief Andrews ready to answer all questions and give whatever information is desired.

BOY CUTS HAND

Robert Reno, aged six years, of R. F. D. No. 1, Edenburg, was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at 7:15 p. m. Wednesday for a laceration of the right hand, received from a hoe.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

Shenango township firemen's Ladies Auxiliary will meet Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Lale Christie, East New Castle.

Dry Cleaners Put 'One-Day Cleaning' Away For Duration

Advertising Slogan Now Obsolete Due To War Shortages, Huge Demand

By JANE COCHRAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 24.—"One-day cleaning" today joined the growing list of advertising slogans that are out "for the duration". It's "one-week cleaning" if you're lucky, "and it soon likely will be four," a spokesman for the cleaning industry declared today.

Manpower shortages, lack of gasoline for pick up and deliveries, inability to replace wornout equipment and greater demand on cleaning services all have combined to place a premium on that spic-and-span look.

In New York a "complete breakdown in service is imminent," Julius Kuffer, president of the Cleaners and Dyers Board of Trade declared. The industry is working around the clock in an effort to supply the service required by New York's 8,000,000 residents and the armed forces, and machinery facilities are also overworked, he said.

The cleaning complications are by no means limited to New York, a spokesman for the Cleaning & Laundry World, a trade publication, said.

"Many sections throughout the country won't promise clothes back in less than two or three weeks, and some even keep clothes a month before they are able to return them," he said.

Conditions are better in areas where the cleaning and laundry business have been declared an essential industry, the spokesman said, but the establishments in those areas have vastly increased work because of the influx of war workers.

WAR CHANGES PENN STATE CO-ED RATIO

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 25.—There'll be one woman to every two men who enter the Pennsylvania State College as freshmen this semester, according to Registrar William S. Hoffman, who said that the pre-war proportion was one woman to every four men.

While figures are still incomplete, Registrar Hoffman expressed the belief that incoming freshmen would number about 400.

'Pay-As-You-Go' Tax Facts Given

Questions and answers below explain the provisions of the current tax payment act of 1943, and are prepared by the treasury department in Washington.

Q. Is the withholding tax an additional tax?

A. No. The withholding tax is merely an easier way of paying your regular annual income tax on a pre-payment pay-as-you-go basis.

Q. I am a married man with one child and am putting 10 per cent of my pay in war bonds and 5 per cent, after subtracting withholding exemption, for the Victory tax. How can I pay the additional twenty per cent withholding tax on top of that fifteen per cent and still have enough to live on?

A. In the first place your twenty per cent withholding tax includes your Victory tax. If you are married and have one child, your exemptions will bring your tax down to approximately 8 per cent. For instance, if your salary or wage is $50 per week, your withholding tax will be approximately $4 per week, and instead of paying an annual income tax of approximately $212 in a lump sum, you are paying it at the rate of $4 weekly.

Q. Suppose when I make my return next March I find my employer has withheld more than enough money to cover my tax. Will the excess be refunded to me?

A. It will either be refunded to you or credited against other income taxes due from you.

Q. Suppose my employer withholds tax from my wages, but does not turn it over to the government. What protection have I?

A. The employer is liable for the payment of the tax and must furnish the employee with a written statement showing the amount of tax deducted. Penalties are imposed upon employers for failure to make and file returns or pay the tax within the time prescribed by law. The employee is amply protected.

Q. Do I have to wait until the end of January to know how much of wages my employer holds out?

A. Yes, for the official notice or receipt unless your services with your employer are terminated before the end of the calendar year.

Q. What happens if the receipt the employer gives me gets lost or destroyed?

A. You should make application to your employer for a copy of the receipt.

Q. Does it make any difference if I change jobs several times during the year?

A. No. Each employer is required to withhold the tax from wage payments made to you.

Q. What advantages are there to me in this withholding?

A. You will be paying on your income and Victory tax as you receive your wages.

CAMP RUN

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Mrs. Russell Wright was hostess Wednesday to the Women's Missionary society of the U. P. church. There were 23 members present and a number of children. Rev. W. C. Sweet of Beaver Falls was a guest. The day was occupied in Red Cross sewing. A tureen dinner was served at noon. Mrs. Russell Wright led devotions, with several members taking part. It was decided to cancel the annual ice cream festival this year, because of the pleasure driving ban. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Arthur Syphrit of Ellwood City on Wednesday, July 14.

OFFICER IS SPEAKER

Naval Lieutenant Frank West, who is spending a 30-day furlough at his home, back from the Solomon Islands area, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Y. P. C. U. of the U. P. church Sunday evening. Lt. West spoke on the various kinds of naval warfare and told of a few of his experiences in combat with the Japanese. His interesting address was well-received by a large audience.

CAMP RUN NOTES

Lightning struck and killed a valuable horse belonging to Ira Alborn last Wednesday evening.

Miss Eleanor Davis of near Slippery Rock spent several days last week with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Wright.

Mrs. David Thompson of New Brighton left on Friday for several days' visit with her husband, who is stationed at Fort Knox, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Syphrit and children of Ellwood City were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sturgeon and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holfelder and family of North Sewickley were Sunday dinner guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Holfelder.

Mrs. Loyal Wright visited her mother, Mrs. Clara Dindinger while she was a patient in the Jameson hospital, New Castle. Mrs. Dindlinger has been taken to her home at Scott Ridge.

First he builds a little house; then he grows rich and build a show-place, and no one of his heirs is able to pay taxes on it.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

Delay Is Seen In Action On 65 Year Draft Age

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Congressional leaders today strongly indicated that there will be no action on President Roosevelt's proposal to extend his work or fight order to men up to 65 years of age until next fall.

Rep. Andrew May (D), chairman of the house military affairs committee, declined to comment on the president's suggestion that the non-combatant draft age be raised from 45 to 65, except to say that "I don't think anything will be done about it before the congressional recess," this summer.

Speaker Rayburn gave cognizance to his congressional fears that Mr. Roosevelt made the proposal as a prelude to vetoing the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill now on his desk, when Rayburn told a press conference that "I don't know what we'll do—it depends on what the president does with the strike bill."

Mr. Roosevelt has until tomorrow night to act on the anti-strike bill. Organized labor has been demanding that he veto the measure, but there are growing indications in congress today that the bill will be pasesd over his veto if he acted adversely upon it.

Sen. Thomas (D) Utah, chairman of the senate labor committee, gave Mr. Roosevelt's 65 year old proposal a reluctant endorsement, saying "if is comes to a time when men must be drafted for work I am willing to support it, but I don't want to draft men for military service and then send them to work."

Army Will Furnish Trucks To Prevent Food Loss In West

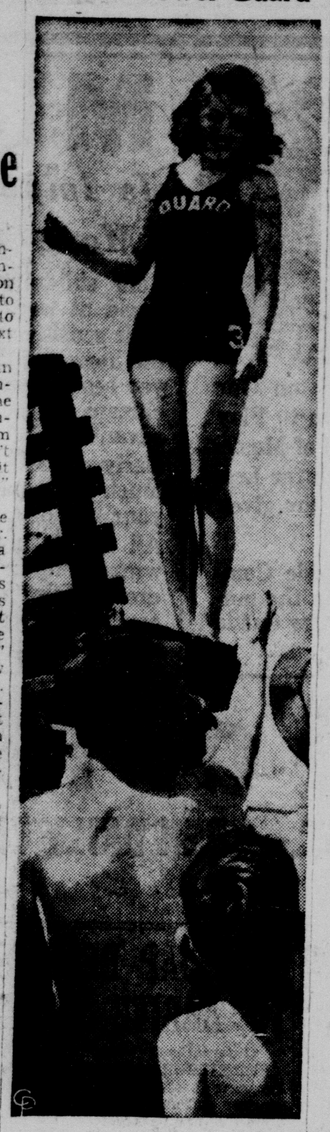

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The army has agreed to furnish trucks and drivers if necessary as a part of a broad program to prevent threatened loss of huge quantities of food in California, it was disclosed today.

This information was given to the senate military affairs committee today by Sen. Sheridan Downey (D) of Calif., in presenting a report on an investigation of conditions in California by a committee of which he was chairman.

"I am hopeful that this and other recommendations of our committee will be extended to other Pacific coast states if necessary," Downey added.

Former Athlete Finds Lost Wallet

Harold Haid, Well Known Locally, Rewarded For Rich Find In California

Harold Haid, who gained considerable reknown as a hurler in the Pacific Coast League, and had a tryout with St. Louis in the National League, came into the spotlight at Beverly Hills, where he is now employed in the post office there, when he picked up a wallet containing over $3,000, on the post office steps.

In the presence of witnesses, he opened the wallet, which contained $128, and counted it out. He notified the owner, who was identified through cards in the wallet, and who proved to be a prominent jeweler of Beverly Hills. The jeweler asked about the three $1,000 bills Haid stated that he hadn't found anything like that in the wallet The owner rushed over to the post office and from a secret compartment, in the billfold produced the missing bills.

Haid breathed easier, and was rewarded with the $128 which was in the open compartment.

Haid lived on Emerson avenue and had an older brother, Charley Haid, who was well known in semi-pro ranks before Harold grew up

YOUNG ARMY OFFICER

FORT BENNING, Ga.—The Third Student Training Regiment at the Fort Benning Infantry School recently turned out a graduate 18 years, 4 months and 10 days old. He was Second Lieut. Dudley W. Hunter, who was studying at the University of North Carolina when he made his bid for Army service. A four year course at Kentucky Military Institute, where he was graduated in 1941, qualified him for Officer Candidate School.

There were 4000 pedestrians killed in the United States in 1940, while "jaywalking" or crossing streets in the middle of the block.

CARLISLE BARRACKS SOLDIERS BELIEVED DROWNED IN CREEK

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Pa., June 24.—Two soldiers were believed drowned today when they fell into the Conodoguinet creek near Carlisle. Artificial respiration was still being applied at the Carlisle hospital at noon, but there seemed little chance that they would be revived.

The men were members of a medical company stationed at the Carlisle barracks. Officers said they fell off a log during a routine training problem on crossing streams. Other members of the company pulled them out.

Both men were married. They were Technician Fourth Grade Henry C. Sima, 32, of Philadelphia, and Pvt. James Bergin, 24, of Huntington, N. Y.

Investigators found the Army was wasting 21 per cent of its food, but that didn't hurt us. A lot of the wastage was kale.

DECEASED SOLDIER SON OF LOUIS KARNER

Through an error, the name of Louis Karner, father of John Karner, who was killed in the North American theater of war on May 29, was given in yesterday's story as John Karner, Sr. Mr. Karner, the father, has a brother John Karner, who is the uncle of the deceased soldier.

Judging by remarks from Washington, the bag that victory is in is a windbag.

STATE CAPITAL IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Continued hot weather appeared in prospect today for capital city residents as they went into another torrid day with the temperature in the 90's.

Yesterday's 95-degree record marked the fifth successive day that the mercury had hovered in the 90's. The temperature was 96 degrees for the two days previous.

PAROLE IS DENIED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The Cambria county district attorney's office today opposed a parole for Daniel Snyder, 40, convicted in 1930 for fatally shooting his wife.

The appeal for commutation of his life sentence was heard this morning before the State Board of Pardons. Snyder has been imprisoned for nearly 13 years in the Western State Penitentiary and his institutional record was termed satisfactory.

Lowest Forest Fire Loss In History Of State This Spring

Only 18,000 Acres Burned During 1943 "Danger Season," Due To Wet Weather

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The lowest forest fire loss in the history of the Commonwealth was reported to Governor Edward Martin today by State Secretary of Forests and Waters James A. Kell.

In closing the records for the 1943 Spring "danger season" Secretary Kell said only about 18,000 acres of forests were burned this year.

He compared that figure with the highest of record—344,752 acres in 1913.

"The totals are particularly comforting," Kell said, "when we realize that timber is such a vital commodity to the present war effort. Lumber is an over-all important object to almost every factor concerned with the current emergency."

Secretary Kell attributed wet weather this past Spring as the primary reason for the record-breaking low number of fires. To this he added:

"A concentrated publicity program; the unselfish co-operation of the newspapers and radio stations of Pennsylvania; the Department's foresters, rangers and towermen; the Defense Council's Forest Fire Fighters Service, and to the thousands of volunteers who constantly keep watch for a first wisp of smoke and who then fearlessly assist us to extinguish the first before they cause too much damage."

Secretary Kell said publicity this year was pointed toward carelessness of man in the forest and stressed the danger in leaving sparks for camp-fires, or in dropping smouldering matches, lighted cigars or cigarets; to the danger of permitting grass fires of Victory Gardeners fom "running away," and to the consequences of the Federal Sabotage Act for destruction of timber.

Foresters, rangers and fire wardens came in for special commendation for "untiring efforts in education" by their speeches and motion pictures before hundreds of schools, churches, civic and service organizations.

George H. Wirt, Chief of Forest Protection who made the original report to Secretary Kell, said about 824 reports by direct telephone lines and two-way radio went to headquarters here during the spring season about "225 reports during the month of May, always the peak month of the season.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

because most of these eighty-one existing agencies are so interlocked with four or five others that it is impossible to disentangle them. As one example, the War Production Board is tied up with no fewer than thirteen other agencies, many of which overlap with still other bureaus or departments until, in the final analysis, the whole thing becomes so confused that is is impossible to determine where a matter requiring WPB action has to begin or where it eventually will end.

It also must be remembered that even these eighty-one lines of control over the war effort are not as simple as they sound. Within each office there is a mixed personnel of policy makers, theorists, economists, professors, lawyers and slide-rule experts, all squalling and scratching and tangling the simplest problems into something resembling an intricate example of higher mathematics. Each department has its experts who sound off on all phases of all questions, each without regard for what an associate in the same office may have already said. The result is a bewildering array of misinformation, each particular brand feeding some otherwise, unimportant little group of so-called serious thinkers and thereby extending the confusion far beyond the city limits of Washington.

The alternative suggested by the bureau is a simplified War Cabinet, made up of the various members of the cabinet and grouped under seven major divisions. These seven divisions include, every major activity connected with the war. There would be no overlapping, no impotent, patched-up agencies filled with political accidents still on the payroll merely because somebody in authority didn't have the heart to fire them.

The chief drawback to this plan is that the President, in selecting his cabinet, never has sought outstanding men. Instead, he has named men whom he could dominate or whom he could overshadow in any potential political contest. But the simplified idea, even with these drawbacks, ought to clear up a lot of delay, confusion and noise that now attends the complicated business of directing a war.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

over on the eastern side of the Adriatic—as inaccessible a man as existed on earth at that juncture.

"Get an interview with him," proposed the editor, "and we will recognize you as a Yankee spokeswoman in good faith."

Vera said "O. K.!" And the editor said "Goodby."

Vera immediately appealed to Pa Bloom.

With no loss of time, Sol established touch with confidential Italy.

It was before Benito Mussolini was of any international consequence. Neverthless, Italians knew him as a locally outstanding newspaper publisher in Milan. Italian economics were in bad shape and Benito was doing his best to improve them and to a modicum of good effect.

Sol streaked it for Milan. He and Benito became side-kicks. They drank beer together, and were sure-enough chums, for the time being.

Introductions between Miss Vera and the elusive d'Annunzio quickly followed. Was that editor back in the U. S. surprised!

D'Annunzio vanished presently from the world scene.

The contact between Bloom and Benito ended quickly when Benito Mussolini hooked up with Fuehrer Hitler. In the meantime, though Sol had learned a great deal about Adolf. He knows Der Fuehrer's psychology thoroughly.

Bloom has not a drop of Axis sympathy, but the Axis is no mystery to him, Italianly or Germanly speaking.

Bloom estimates Herr Hitler as essentially an international criminal. He sizes Duce Mussolini as an individual who might have been O. K., if he had not gone down the wrong alley—unpardonably, to be sure, but as a matter of bad judgment, rather than of native cussedness.

Sol wants a world dicker.

He is the best internationalist on Capitol Hill.

What he needs to begin with a strong conviction for inter-Americanism.

To get the program going, the first step is to convert Vera Bloom to the Pan-American program 100 per cent. She will attend to the "old man."

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

accepting the logical setup as well as the logical man. The net result is that everybody who knows the food facts is increasingly disturbed.

CONCERNING THE OPA and the OWI, whether action of the House in reducing their appropriations is nullified by the Senate or not makes slight difference. Each had begun to go to pieces before that. For months the OPA has been so rapidly disintergating that no amount of official denials could conceal the fact. Nor was this the fault of Mr. Prentiss Brown, its head. Mr. Brown inherited a swollen monstrosity of an organization which had been built on a poor foundation and headed in the wrong direction. Whether it is just to continue on it wobbling way or whether it is to be taken apart and rebuilt is still uncertain. But that it is functioning effectively literally no one contends.

TAXATION IS another home-front problem which is in a muddle. The President insisted that he must have sixteen billion (later reduced to twelve billion) more revenue from taxes, and the tax authorities are preparing to bring out a bill some time in September to be passed before the end of the year. But the only way in which any considerable part of this twelve billion can be raised is through a general sales tax and to that the President and his CIO friends are opposed. The sales tax can't be passed over his opposition, and there is no other alternative. This, unless he yields, would seem to render impossible the assignment to raise twelve billion or even six billion additional in taxes.

LOOKING at these things—the labor policy, the food policy, the price-fixing policy, the taxation policy—it is impossible to escape the conclusion that the bungling at the top has created a really frightening condition, fully justifying the warning of the Kilgore Committee. The Administration and the country alike are in a pretty deep hole. It is out of this hole that Mr. Byrnes, advised by Mr. Baruch, is expected to pull them. It still may be done if the President will recognize his mistakes and take the advice for which he has asked. It certainly cannot be done if he continues to reject recommendations either because they come from sources he does not like or because they involve reversals of his positions. It is true now as it was true two years ago—the real bottleneck is on the President's desk.

The four were Jennie Isabella, Sylvester Isabella, Mike Isabella and Julia Isabella. They pleaded guilty to selling and furnishing liquor and beer to minors. Their fine was a joint one, $250 being assessed upon the group, plus the costs, or 2 months in the county jail. The fine and costs were paid.

William Crabill pleaded to pointing firearms, was fined $50 and costs and placed upon probation for six months.

SAYS JAP BEETLES TO ARRIVE SOON

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24 — The Japanese beetles will stage their summer offensive "in destructive numbers" about the middle of next month, the Bureau of Plant Industry of the State Agriculture Department reported today.

Concentrated attacks will center especially in the southeastern corner of the state, including all counties east of the Susquehanna river and as far north as Dauphin and the eastern or river townships in York and Cumberland counties, it was stated.

The department reported that the trapping of the insects is of value if an entire community is covered with many traps. A single trap in a back yard attracts more beetles than it will catch and may actually increase the number of beetles in the immediate vicinity.

It doesn't pay to expose an evil before the people see it. They resent your criticism; then when they see the truth, they forget that you saw it first.

TO THE boy beside him, this Boeing Fortress pilot ranks with Superman.

One look at the instrument panel and you feel the same way. It's hard to believe that ordinary mortals could ever master the maze of dials, buttons, levers and switches required to fly and fight a thirty-ton bomber.

But young Americans are doing it with deadly efficiency. (Ask Adolf, Benito or Tojo.) And they don't learn their jobs just by reading a book. It takes intensive training and practical experience to produce the bomber teams who risk their lives together.

The electric power business is like that. You can't make kilowatt-hours with theories. You've got to learn how—by growing up in the business.

That's the way most electric company men got their start. It's the American way. Do a better job and you get better jobs to do.

The system is simple, but it works.

It works so well that America's big peacetime industries became great war machines overnight.

It works so well that the electric companies under business management were able to push power production up and up to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before—and at low rates.

The same business system that is helping to win the war today will also enrich the peace—when air freighters are delivering radios and refrigerators—instead of block-busters!

Blood Donors Nearing 500

Hundred And Eighty Donors Taken Care Of On Wednesday

On the third day of its stay in New Castle, the mobile unit of the Blood Donor Service of the American Red Cross took care of a record number of blood donors—180, which means 180 more pints of blood for the blood plasma work of the Red Cross. Monday's contribution here was 146 pints, Tuesday's 165 pints, which makes a total of 491 pints for the first three days of the unit's two-weeks stay at the First Presbyterian church.

So faithful were yesterday's 200 registered donors about keeping their appointments promptly that it was necessary to call only a few of the many who have their names on the waiting list and who have asked to be called in cases of cancellations.

Two men hopeful of being taken, although they had not previously registered, went to the church shortly after 5 o'clock, but it was not possible to accommodate them because of the crowded schedule. They asked to have their names put on the waiting list and so may yet have an opportunity to contribute.

Miss Jean Miller was given the small silver pin insignia of a third time donor to the Red Cross blood plasma work.

Red Cross canteen workers who served on Tuesday and Wednesday were: Mrs. H. K. Glenn, corps leader, Mrs. T. A. Clark, Mrs. Paul Fischer, Mrs. Walter Fulkerson, Mrs. H. S. Kirk, Mrs. Welty Rugh, Mrs. Paul Rowland.

Mrs. D. G. Hildebrand, corps leader, Mrs. Roy Long, Mrs. Paul Butz, Mrs. Jack Conn, Mrs. Morris Davis, Mrs. C. Leroy Martin, Mrs. Bert McKibben and Mrs. J. A. Porte.

Members of the D. A. R. were hostesses for the day, Mrs. F. E. Sowersby, Mrs. Wyatt Campbell, Mrs. F. G. Simonton, Mrs. John R. Bigler and Miss Lillian Perry. Tuesday hostesses were Mrs. Gayl Blim, Mrs. William Berkstresser, Mrs. Jay Rudolph, Mrs. H. C. Dinsmore and Mrs. F. G. Fox.

Zionist District Elects Officers

Large Sum Of Defense Bonds Sold By Lawrence County Zionist District

Election of new officers took place Wednesday evening at the regular meeting of the Lawrence County Zionist district held Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock in the Cosmo club, North Mercer street.

The officers are: President, J. E. Raffel; vice presidents, Louis Kohn and Jacob Shenson; secretary, Maurice Levinson; financial secretary, David Victor; treasurer, Louis Ruzewich.

Reports were heard from Louis Kohn on the present status of Palestine in world affairs. Maurice Levinson, secretary, reported on the activities taken part in by the organization during the past year. In cooperation with the national organization during the month of February, $42,000 of defense bonds were sold locally. David Victor is chairman of the drive.

Gilbert Levine reported on the Jewish National Fund at the present time, and later Mr. Levine and Maurice Levinson were appointed as delegates to the national convention, to be held this year at Columbus, O., on September 11.

PART OF MINERS FAIL TO REPORT

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—The traditionally unified U.M.W. union was rent with bitter indecision and even open rebellion today as more than half of Western Pennsylvania's 15,000 miners failed to report for work today, almost 48 hours after the official end of the strike.

While 14 locals specificially voted to defy John L. Lewis' back-to-work order, many others in Cambria, Somerset, Indiana and Clearfield counties—the heart of the bituminous region—reversed their original decesion to resume production and refused to show up at the pits today.

Less than 3,000 miners were working today in the Johnstown area, a section which normally employs about 45,000 men. Similarly in District 5, including the Pittsburgh area, thousands of diggers continued their walkout as a protest against the inability of their union leaders to secure an immediate and substantial pay increase.

COMPLAINS OF NOISE

Jordan Bailey, Liberty street, today complained to council that the sounding of train whistles, bells and auto horns at the Mahoning avenue railroad crossing was a nuisance.. In reference to the noise from the engines, Solicitor R. M. White opined that Bailey had the option of entering a suit in court to have it abated.

SMALL BOY INJURED

Richard Fulkerson of 3 East Garfield avenue was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for brush burns of the back and leg, received when a car backed up and struck him as he was sitting on the curb.

IN PITTSBURGH TODAY

Frank Sargent, who is chief air raid warden of the city OCD, is attending the V. F. W. convention in Pittsburgh.

Preparing To Buy Material For Streets

During council meeting, held today in city hall, the city authorized the insertion of advertisements for bids for the purchase of bituminous resurfacing material which will be required for approximately one dozen streets here this summer. Seventeen hundred and seventy-five tons will be required for the base and 2,777 tons for the top coat.

Pre-Dawn Test Weak Spots Seen

Air Raid Test Of Week Reveals Some Changes Needed In Plans

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—Tuesday's statewide pre-dawn blackout accomplished its purpose by exposing "weak spots" in the communications system, Col. Lynn G. Adams, chief of protective services for the State Defense Council, said today.

"No doubt there are red faces in many communities where weak spots were discovered—weak spots that would have left large sections of the state unprepared and helpless had this been the real thing and not a drill," he declared.

Instead of telephones, the council for the first time used the "black boxes" of the army's civil air raid warning system in transmitting messages for the drill, he disclosed. The boxes, equipped with signal lights, are located at 57 unidentified places in the state.

Adams asserted that "at least a half dozen counties" did not participate in the drill "because of misunderstandings and failures".

MEAT RATION

When we could get all the meat we wanted, we didn't want much.

When we can't get all we want, we think we want a lot.

Meat supplies protein, fat, minerals and vitamins. A person weighing 140 pounds needs about two ounces of protein in a day. That would amount to about one pound in a week. Together with other usual sources of protein, 2½ pounds of meat would be an ample supply.

There are many other sources of protein. Eggs, cheese, kidneys, heart, liver, poultry, fish, beans, potatoes and cereals are rich in protein.

By making use of these nutrients, it is not necessary to eat as much meat.

The minerals and vitamins found in meat are supplied by other kinds of food too.

Meat is a fine food. Our soldier boys need it. We can get along on less so that they can have more.

Keep Perspiring Feet Dry and Sweet

Excessive perspiration often makes your feet uncomfortable—socks or stockings damp, as well as causing disagreeable foot odors. Try dusting your feet and shoes with Allen's Foot-Ease. Easy—quick—convenient. It acts to absorb excess perspiration and prevent odors. If you are breaking in a new pair of shoes or if you are wearing an ill-fitting tight pair, there's nothing like Allen's Foot-Ease to relieve the friction that makes feet feel so uncomfortable. For real foot comfort, be sure to ask for Allen's Foot-Ease today! At all druggists.

Welcome Lady Bugs To Victory Garden

Those With White V On Face Destroy Insects Harmful To Vegetables

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 24. Mr. and Mrs. Victory Gardener cordially invite Miss Lady Bug to visit their garden this spring and summer. None admitted unless wearing a white V.

Lady bugs will destroy harmful insects in the vegetable garden, Dr. Stuart W. Frost, insect expert at the Pennsylvania State college, said today in outlining ways to kill common garden pests.

"Although lady bugs resemble closely the destructive bean beetles, you can tell them apart by the white V which the lady bug wears on her face," he stated.

Common pests of the vegetable garden are aphids, the bean beetle, the cut worm, the cabbage maggot, the squash bug, and the corn ear worm. Here are some of the ways you may get rid of them, according to Dr. Frost.

Bean beetle—Spray the vines with calcium arsenate.

Aphids—Spray with nicotine sulphate.

Tomato worm—Spray with arsenate of lead, or hand pick and destroy.

Cabbage maggot—Plants protected by a tar disk when first coming up will not acquire the maggot.

Squash bug—Nicotine spray, or hand pick the young bug and drown in kerosene.

Cut worm—When the plant is set out, wrap the stem with paper so that the paper goes below ground an inch or two and above for two or three inches around the plant stem. Cultivation also aids in getting rid of the cut worm.

Corn ear worm—Desilk the corn after it has had a chance to fertilize, and dispose of it by burning. Or dust with arsenate of lead and lime mixture after fertilization.

Professor Frost advocates the selecton of a few basic sprays which should be ready for immediate use when the insects and worms first appear. Arsenate of lead and lime, calcium arsenate, and nicotine sulphate are good insecticides, he said.

MILLBURN

FRIENDSHIP CLUB

Twenty-five members of the Ladies Friendship club were entertained at the hall by a hostess group headed by Mrs. Helen Blake. Mrs. M. S. Brenneman of Leesburg and Mrs. Louis Rodawalt of near Mercer were special guests. Plans were made for entertaining at the U. S. O. on Saturday evening. The committee in charge: Mesdames Margaret Masters, Edith Latshaw, Betty Armstrong, Helen Blake, Marie Anderson, Edith Neal and the Misses Clara Metzgar and Anna Butler. A canning demonstration was planned as a feature of a future meeting.

Flying A and our Flying Aces

LATE in 1941, Tide Water Associated finished installing a new Houdry catalytic cracking unit to make a finer motor fuel.

Intensive research had proved that catalytic cracking yields the finest gasoline—and Tide Water Associated was making sure Tydol Flying "A" would continue to be a leader in the field.

Then December 7th exploded over the nation. And that new Houdry unit had a double job to do—not only to make the finest Tydol Flying "A" in our history, but also to produce 100-octane gasoline stock. For this high octane fuel is the lifeblood of our fighting planes. Its tremendous power, so great that your present car is incapable of utilizing it, is helping our flying aces write history in skies all over the world.

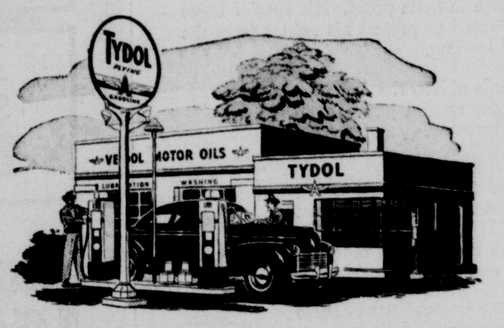

So Tide Water Associated is devoting the production of its "cat cracker" to war needs. But when Victory is won, Tide Water Associated will produce a new fuel for you in postwar Flying "A". This gasoline will hold all the benefits of catalytic cracking, all the experience and knowledge we've gained in making super-fuel for war aviation.

In fact, we promise you, in the new Flying "A" gasoline so powerful, so efficient, that entirely new and better cars will be designed around it!

Committee Will Ration Cookers

Increased Demand For Canning Utensils Will Result In Rationing In County

Increased demand for pressure cookers for the home canning of vegetables this year has resulted in the necessity for the rationing of pressure cookers to make certain they are placed in the hands of individuals or groups where they will accomplish maximum results. The rationing of these cookers has been delegated to the United States Department of Agriculture War Boards.

The State War Board felt that in view of the use to which the pressure cookers are to be put, maximum efficiency and the most equitable distribution could be accomplished by seeking the advice of individuals and organizations closely allied with home canning programs.

In each county the program will be administered by the County Farm Rationing Committee appointed by the County War Board to administer the farm machinery program. In order to assist in administering the program in the county and to pass on the eligibility of applicants and to review applications, the County War Board has appointed the following County Advisory Committee: Mrs. K. K. McCreary of Hickory township; Mrs. J. Francis Boak of Slippery Rock township; Mrs. Elmer Eliott of New Castle; Mrs. Seldon Byers of North Beaver township; and Mrs. W. G. Lewis, of Wilmington township.

Rejection of your poetry doesn't mean it isn't good. A new "Gettysburg Address," written in verse, would have a hard time getting into print.

World War Vet Is Heard At Kiwanis

Harry Barkby Makes Plea For Understanding Of Men After War Ends

New Castle Kiwanis club members heard one of the most interesting talks they have had the privilege of enjoying in some time, when Kiwanian Harry Barkby, a veteran of World War One, who saw several years of hard service in the English army, spoke on the subject "The problem of the soldier, before and after the war."

Mr. Barkey related many interesting events of his service during the war, and in conclusion, made a plea that the people, particularly the fathers and mothers of these men who have been in the service, make an honest effort to understand them, and not expect the soldier to understand his parents. He stated that these men will have gone through one of the most gruelling experiences which can come to man, and that the service in the army, particularly of those who get into action, will leave marks which will sear their memories. He urged all to treat the soldiers with understanding and respect after their return home.

The Inter-club meeting in Pittsburgh on next Wednesday, June 30, was again brought to the attention of the members.

Recipe For Making War Marriage Stick Given By Professor

Penn State Sociology Teacher Tells How To Achieve Smooth Married Life

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 24—Romance may make the war marriage click, but here are some things that make it stick.

Don't give up too much of your own individuality if you wish to stay happy, advises Dr. M. E. John, associate professor of rural sociology at the Pennsylvania State College.

The most successful marriages are those in which both husband and wife have some, but not too many, interests in common. When couples do too much together, they have too much on which to disagree, he said.

Other of Dr. John's rules for making the marriage go are:

1. Get the blessings of the parents. This helps avoid mother-in-law trouble.
2. Have a moderately long engagement, with opportunity for social activity.
3. Be sure you can love your partner more than your family. If you aren't ready to be weaned away from your family, you aren't ready to be married.
4. Marry someone about your own age, who has a similar religion, about the same amount of education, and comes from the same economic group that you do.
5. Keep your mate your love object.
6. Make necessary sacrifices to bring about personal adjustment in habits of daily living, but do not let all the compromises be on one side. The more automatic family duties and activities become, the smoother the marriage.
7. Don't inhibit a conflict. Get it out into the open and straighten it out. Let steam out continuously instead of damming it up.

Overlap Period For Blue Stamps Given

Blue Stamps N, P And Q Valid From July 1 To August 7, Inclusive

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Another carry-over period for blue stamps was announced Wednesday by the Office of Price Administration. Stamps N, P and Q from ration book two will be valid for buying processed foods from July 1 to August 7, inclusive.

Blue stamps K, L and M remain valid through July 7, so that six blue stamps will be valid for the period July 1-7, inclusive.

OPA said that carry-over periods would be provided for subsequent months, since it has been shown that the overlap of one week made shopping more convenient, especially for persons living in remote sections.

Consumers were urged by OPA to spread out their red stamp purchases to avoid last minute rushes at stores. Red stamps J, K, L M and N expire next Wednesday. Validity dates for those to be used in July will be announced soon.

LEAVE BINOCULARS, CAMERAS AT HOME IF VISITING BEACH

(Special To The News)

BALTIMORE, June 24.—Going to the beach this summer? You'll save yourself an extra burden and maybe some embarrassment if you leave your camera and binoculars at home, because you can't use them.

Major General Milton A. Reckford, commanding general, third service command, today reminded the public that two eastern defense command public proclamations forbade taking pictures and using binoculars in restricted areas along the Atlantic seacoast, including most ocean beaches from Maine to Florida.

Coast guardsmen, army patrols and local authorities will enforce the orders.

GRIM WARNING ON INVASION

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24—A grim note of warning was struck today by the State Defense Council in a plea for a "larger army" of nurses aides to care for wounded veterans in the aftermath of the anticipated invasion of Europe.

The council pointed out that Gov. Edward Martin "has stated that all our hospitals may be taxed to the utmost capacity when the forces of the United Nations begin their drive on Continental Europe."

Nurses aides receive 100 hours of intensive instruction from the Red Cross and must agree to serve a minimum of 150 hours a year in hospitals or other nurses centers. Candidates are recruited by local defense councils in cooperation with the Red Cross.

Farmers Must Mail Enrollment Card

Must Return Card By Last Of Month To Receive Production Payment

A certification card indicating a farmer's intention to participate in the special war crop program must be signed and returned to the county agricultural conservation office before July 1, or it will be legally impossible for the farmer to receive either a potato or a truck crop production payment, according to Dorris L. Fulkman, chairman of the Lawrence county committee of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's agricultural adjustment agency.

"Only a few days remain until this deadline of June 30," he said, calling attention to the fact that the month of June is close to an end. Certification cards have been mailed to all farmers whose "farm plans" as given to the AAA committeeman have indicated that a production payment is being earned. A farmer needs only to sign the certification card and mail it.

Production payments will be made to farmers who have increased their acreage of potatoes and the following fresh vegetables: carrots, snap beans, lima beans, beets, tomatoes, cabbage, onions and green peas.

The potota payment will be at the rate of 50 cents per bushel of the normal yield for each acre planted between 90 and 110 per cent of the farm potato goal. A fresh vegetable payment of $50 will be made for each acre of vegetables as named, planted between 90 and 110 per cent of the farm's vegetable goal.

HARRISVILLE GIRL WINS PENN STATE AIR SCHOLARSHIP

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., June 24.—Ruth Ward of Harrisville, near here, is one of 90 girls to win aeronautical scholarships and begin their engineering studies at Pennsylvania State College. The girls were selected by Hamilton Standard Propellors, a division of the United Aircraft Corporation, to prepare for important jobs as engineering aides.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

To err is human, someone once said. However, it doesn't do to err too often. Just how the scribe got that "October" in for a meeting of the Auxiliary police who actually will meet June 29, in city hall, we don't know, unless, oh, well instead of being like others who blame everything on the war we'll suffice to say we blame it on the heat.

Gas masks and gas at 8 p. m., June 30, at 309 Fern street. This is the post which is in need of a desk.

The 11 p. m., fire sirens and whistle denote "Get to home Children" and not that an air raid is on. This information is for CD workers.

Many union bosses make trouble, not in the interest of justice, but only because they have the upper hand and enjoy cracking the whip over employers.

POLICE RECORD NAMES OF BOYS

Police reported today that they are experiencing more difficulty with youths not yet 18 years old in the enforcement of the curfew ordinance. Last night they found a number who were on the streets after 11 p. m. Their names and addresses were taken and if caught violating the law again they will be taken to city hall, it was reported.

Britain's post offices handled six billion letters last year.

First Methodists Have Conference

Reports Of Organizations Are Heard At Quarterly Meeting; Church Elections Held

Over 100 stars are now on the service flag and the young people are in all war areas all over the world, it was announced at the fourth quarterly conference held in the First Methodist church Wednesday evening. Dr. W. E. Bartlett, superintendent of Grove City District, presided.

Reports were presented by the various organizations of the church showing a favorable report for the year closing June 1. During the year, 75 new members were received bringing the present membership to a total of 1,197 resident members and 50 non-resident members.

During the year, $14,000 was received for local and conference causes and $2,200 for world service. The Sunday school enrollment is 656.

Dr. Burr R. McKnight, pastor of the church, presented a report of his activities, showing that he has been in his own pulpit every Sunday since the beginning of the conference year, September 1. Much appreciation was expressed by the conference on his faithful and successful work during this first year of his pastorate.

In elections, three trustees, re-elected for three-year terms, are J. C. Minor, Andrew Reider and D. S. Pyle. Among others elected are: Lay member to attend annual conference, J. C. Minor; reserve representative, T. A. Myers; lay leader, E. B. Bartlett; district steward, William G. Ayers; reserve district steward, John W. Louer; recording steward, T. A. Myers; communion steward, Miss Mollie Davis.

Our big handicap is lack of vision. We'd all try harder if we felt now as we shall feel when we realize that victory is far away and uncertain.

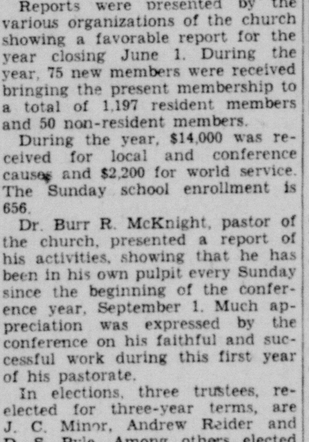

Figure It Out Yourself. How can you effectively join in saving all the little children of the world from human slavery, death and injury from the Nazis and Japanese? Put more and more of your pay into war bonds every payday. Your savings will go to war in the form of war equipment and other munitions. How much more should you put into war bonds? The only ones who can answer that are—you and your family. It's up to you to decide just how much more you'll do to win the war.

If you were fighting in the Solomons or in Africa or forcing a landing in Europe you'd like to feel that the folks at home were back of you—all the way—you'd be proud of your family and your friends if you knew they were buying war bonds not at 10 per cent or 15 per cent, but with every cent beyond that which they need for necessities.

Dodgers Press Cards For N. L. Lead; Bucs Split Two

Bums Half Game From Top Post; M. Cooper Loses

RED SOX TRIP ATHLETICS, 1-0

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, June 24.—Dodgers prexy Branch Rickey is, fortunately for his club, a pretty poor prophet. At the season's start, he looked to the Chicago Cubs to be the prime pennant contenders; they are currently in the cellar. A couple of days ago Branch said the Cardinals were better today than in 1942. But, today, the Cardinals' hold on the National League lead is being battered by the Dodgers, who are but a half-game out of first place.

What projected the Bums into their fortunate spot was a twin victory over the New York Giants, 7 to 2, and 6 to 0, while the Cardinals were losing 8 to 3, to the Cincinnati Reds.

Melton Goes Route

Rube Melton went the route on the Brooklyn mound in the opener and allowed only five hits, while the giants were forced to use three pitchers in the seventh inning. Veteran Curt Davis also went all the way for the Dodgers in the nightcap, pitching hitless ball for seven innings.

It was a bad day for Mort Cooper in the Cardinals' defeat. The Reds emerged from a four-game losing streak to batter Mortimer, and before the Cincinnatians were through the riled Cooper and given up six hits and three walks, balked once and flung a wild pitch. Joe Beggs blanked the Cards the last five innings and was credited with the win after relieving Ray Starr.

Rickey's favored Cubs split a doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates, taking the first game, 4 to 1, then dropping the nightcap, 7 to 5. Claude Passeau held the Pirates to five hits in the opener, while his teammates collected two walks and three hits for three runs and the ball game. In the afterpiece, the Cubs used four pitchers, who were good for a total of 13 Cubs hits.

Charley Barrett and Al Javery twirled the Boston Braves to a twin win over the Philadelphia Phillies, Barrett blanking the Phillies, 1 to 0, in the opener and Javery following with a 4 to 3 decision in 11 innings.

PITCHERS CAN'T HIT? OH YEAH!

Who said pitchers couldn't hit?

Members of the Atlanta staff just dare anyone to walk into their Southern League park and make a wisecrack of that sort.

Latest available averages for the circuit show Pitcher Lefty Cozart batting a cool .464; Rene Cortes has a .375 mark and Pep Rambert shows .364. Then there's Guin Cronic with .313 and Stan Todd with .275.

The team batting average of the Atlanta club is .290 and you can draw your own conclusions.

The fellows who are supposed to do the hitting aren't chiding the Atlanta pitchers about their stick work this year.

MOOSE IS HOST TO ELDER NINE; L. INDIES HOME

Foes Clash Tonight At 6 O'Clock; Indies Play On Cedar Grounds

New Castle's interesting City Baseball league moves past the midway mark tonight as rivals continue chasing for the first half title.

One of the biggest crowds of the season is expected to swarm around Lee avenue field (West Side) where the league-leading Moose club entertains Dory Gunnett's Elder A. C. outfit.

On Cedar street, the Shenango Pottery exchanges blows with the second-place Lawrence Indies. The game originally was scheduled for Mahoning field.

Both clashes start at six o'clock.

Moose Ready

The Moose hopped into first by edging the Indies, 2-1, Tuesday night. "Fiz" Rodenbaugh today indicated that he will present his strongest line-up in an effort to repulse the Elders' threat.

Hampered by the temporary loss of five players, who are either in the hospital or on the injured list, the Elders, nevertheless, are primed for the tussle. Manager Gunnett expects to do the flinging.

The Indies can move back into the sky post by topping the Potters, while the Elders trip the Moose. The Indies are lagging by a half game. The Potters are in last place with a won two and lost seven record.

South American Appears Unbeatable In Collegiate Tennis Event

(International News Service)

EVANSTON, Ill., June 24.—Francisco "Pancho" Segura, who came to the University of Miami by way of Ecuador, seemed to stand alone today as the 59th annual intercollegiate tennis meet moved into the quarter-final round.

The other survivors in the tourney on the Northwestern university courts included four players from the Pacific coast, three from the south and one from the midwest.

But none appeared capable of heading off the little South American, seeded No 1 in the tournament and ranked fourth among the nation's singles stars last year.

Segura drew for his opposition today Wayne Anderson of Tulane.

Trout Discards Contact Lenses

DETROIT, June 24.—Believing that his eye sight was impairing his twirling, Dizzy Trout, fluent Detroit pitcher, acquired contact lenses.

He wore them a few times. Dissatisfied, Trout discarded the eye pieces and explained:

"The catcher is big enough for me to see. That's all I need."

PENNSYLVANIA BASS SEASON OPENING DATE THURS., JULY 1

TROUT SEASON ENDS JULY 31

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 24.—Pennsylvania's bass season opens July 1 and extends to November 30—and the trout season ends July 31, this giving anglers their opportunity to fish for both these species of fish during the month of July.

"Anglers may have some difficulty in getting to their far-away favorite streams this season," says the Department of Commerce, "but fortunately no Pennsylvania angler has to go too far away from his home to catch fish and enjoy his sport."

When the "bass season" opens it will be legal to catch large and small mouth bass, white, crappie, strawberry and calico bass, pike perch, also called wall-eyed pike or Susquehanna salmon and muskellunge. Lake, or salmon trout, also become legal July 1.

More than 300 tons of fish from the state's hatcheries were placed in streams and lakes of Pennsylvania this year, despite the difficulties of transportation. All of the fish were of legal size and many of them were as long as 18 inches. Much of the stocking was done in streams near congested areas so that anglers would be able to go fishing without going too far away from their own homes. Many of the best bass waters can be reached by rail transportation—if one is not averse to hiking some short distance from the rail lines to the streams.

Interest On "Up"

An indication in the apparent increased interest in fishing is seen in the number of requests for fishing information being received by the State Department of Commerce. These requests come not only from anglers in adjoining states but from Pennsylvanias as well. The department's booklet on "Fishing Accommodations in Pennsylvania" went into its second printing because of the increased demand. The booklet lists places where overnight accommodations may be obtained in all but a few of the counties of the state, where guide service is available, the railroad lines serving the fishing areas and the fishing laws.

Photos by Penna. Department of Commerce

Pennsylvania's streams and lakes provide good fishing this year—and they will attract large numbers of persons seeking short-time relaxation from arduous duties. Above, older folks enjoy a day on a stream and below the scene is typical of the hundreds of waterways in the state where boys may have their fun with a cane fishing pole and a can of worms.

Farm And Game Program Lauded

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 24.—The State Game Commission today praised the co-operative farm-game programs designed to improve hunting and establish friendlier relations between sportsmen and land owners.

Seth Gordon, executive director, said that more than 158,000 acres of hunting lands were included in the 73 projects operating throughout the state. He revealed that 48,000 hunters had killed more than 56,000 rabbits, 23,000 ringneck pheasants, 1,700 quail, 500 grouse, 270 racoons, 11,000 squirrels and 13 deer. The annual cost of the projects, Gordon added, was about 16 cents an acre "and are paying big dividends, not only in the amount of game harvested but in the protection afforded land owners from vandals."

Disregarding the knotty transportation issue, Wampum White Sox officials, a note to this office, state that they're in the market for a franchise in the City Baseball league. The demand probably will receive a negative treatment, in view of the fact that current members are unable to figure out a way to travel to and from county diamonds without being sounded by the OPA . . . .

Count Awaits Future Tests

Arlington, American Derby Will Show If Fleet Is 'Super' Horse

By WALTER L. JOHNS
(Central Press Sports Editor)

It has been proved (or hasn't it?) that Count Fleet, three-year-old king of the turf, is a super horse But is he a super "super" horse.

The answer to that question probably won't be answered for it's a subject which could be argued from one home stretch to another. But something closely resembling an answer to it may be given at Washington Park, Homewood, Ill., soon, for Count Fleet finally will meet real Competition in Occupation, Ocean Wave and Devil's Thumb.

If you haven't kept up on such matters, you may not know that Occupation, Ocean Wave, and Devil's Thumb, were originally named by turf experts as the only three-year-old horses which could be mentioned in the same breath with Count Fleet.

Big Events on Way

As it happened, not one of the three has faced the royal son of Reigh Count this year. All have been on the shelf but they are ready again and the Count will hook up with them in the Arlington Classic and the American Derby, two of the richest three-year-old stake races of the season.

Count Fleet has proved he can ramble the distance. In the Derby he ran a mile and a quarter. In the Belmont he ran a mile and a half. And how he ran it!

Ocean Wave also has shown he can run the distance. But for Devil's Thumb and Occupation, it remains to be seen what they can do over the longer stretch.

A son of Bull Dog, a horse which produced few distance runners, Occupation may not be able to keep up with the Count over the longer route, which is what will be required in the Arlington and the American Derby.

Top Swatsmith Is 17-Years-Old

Catcher John Pramesa, currently leading the Appalachian League with an average around .450, is only 17 years old and is playing his first season of professional ball.

The powerful youngster weighs 200 pounds and measures off to six feet, two on the tapeline. As a member of the Bristol club, he's earmarked for the New York Giants at a future date. If he keeps up his stick work, the date will not be "too future."

UMPIRE BASIL BACK ON DUTY

CHICAGO, June 24.—Steve Basil, American League umpire on voluntary retired list snice December, returns behind the plate. Basil was injured in an hunting accident last year and was forced to withdraw. The A. L. now has 11 ball callers.

In Pro Loop

TED COLLINS, above, radio commentator and manager of Kate Smith, the singer, has been awarded the Boston franchise in the National Football league but will not become an active participant in the pro league until next December. (International)

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Tom McMahon, the Bearcat of Yesteryear, his nails having been clipped long, long ago, arrived home for his weekly visit yesterday and incidentally he let us in on a few facts concerning fistania that we ne'er before knew. It concerns Jimmie Dunn and "What Might Have Been."

Talking about Dunn and his fistic tutoring ability Tom said that "it was too bad that Dunn did not possess a pair of spectacles through which he could gaze into the future. Had he had them he would have been still riding in the first or second row of pugilism.

"Think of him turning down Johnny Risko when the Cleveland baker boy wanted Dunn to handle him. No, he sent him over to Danny Daunn (also a former New Castle boy). Sammy Angott also wanted Dunn to handle him but because Curtis Sheppard had defeated Angott, Dunn didn't take him over."

Johnny Risko went on to earn a barrel of money. He is now in the army. Angott went on to win the lightweight championship of the world, retired and recently earned a nice piece of cake by boxing Hammerin' Hank (Henry) Armstrong in New York.

Suggest Haegg Meet American Stars In Relay

Swede Paper Recommends One Man Meet By Gunder Against U. S. Aces

TONY GALENTO ON BLACK LIST

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, June 24—As a follow up to Gunder Haegg's easy victory over Greg Rice, a Swedish newspaper, according to reports cabled back here, suggests that Gunder the Thunder meet American runners in a relay. This proposal provides that the Swedish star run against a whole covey of Americans, one picking up where the other leaves off to make a two-mile race, for instance, a one man meet by Gunder against a half dozen or more others, with each of the latter running a part of the distance.

At first blush this might seem slightly smug on the part of the Swedish newspaper. It might appear to be a pat on the back indicating that Gunder is too good for one man at a time in America. As a matter of fact, there is nothing smug about this proposal. Gunder against a relay field is about the only chance to get any competition for him.

Opposition Lacking

There is little left for the Swede now. He has beaten our best man at a distance in Rice, and from here on his every effort must be in the nature of an exhibition. Running him against relays might enable him to set up some new records. In any case, it would be a novelty that would attract customers. That is the purpose of his being in the country—to help the war funds.

Getting away from the amateur aspects of the sports business, the National Boxing Association today sent out this notice:

"Any barnstorming that Tony Galento will do around the country henceforth will be strictly as entertainment."

Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing Association said today that he had been assured that Galento will appear hence-forward strictly in exhibitions.

On Black List

All this leads back to Galento's recent decision to stage a comeback. He didn't satisfy the customers at Tampa, Fla., or at Milwaukee, Wis., or at several other points and currently is on the black list as a performer with the major commissions.

Greene puts it this way:

"Galento has been bouncing around the country knocking out a wrestler here, an old-timer there, a couple of spar hands as an extra bargain. But because the general impression has been that he is on a come-back tour and unfavorable washback has resulted in those cities where he has 'played.'

STOCK MARKET IS IRREGULAR

Some Leading Issues Show Gains, Other Reveal Slight Drop

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 24—The stock market was irregular today in dull trading.

Price changes in most cases were restricted to fractional deviations from last night's closing prices.

The mixed picture was reflected in practically every group. The "peace" shares which were active and higher yesterday turned quiet today.

Among the issues to show gains were C. & O., N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Lockheed, American Tel. & Tel., Westinghouse, Allied Stores, Firestone, General Motors, American Can.

The offside was represented by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Atchison, B. & O., Great Northern Preferred, Pennsylvania, Pepsi-Cola, Standard of N. J., and Sinclair.

Allied Chemical dropped 1 point.

tained their two-game American League lead by breaking even with the Washington Senators in a twin bill. The Yanks lost the opener, 8 to 0, then won the nightcap, 4 to 0, without scoring a single earned run. The Yanks were shut out in the first game for the first time since May 14 by Milo Candini, who limited his rivals to six hits.

The Chicago White Sox scored their second straight win over the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 3.

The Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians divided a double bill, the Tigers winning the first game, 3 to 1, and the Indians the afterpiece, 9 to 6, in 11 innings.

Several thousand soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled Griggs Stadium to forestall a possible outbreak of the race rioting which plagued Detroit Monday and Tuesday.

Jeff Heath, who struck out four straight times in the opener won the nightcap with his homer in the eleventh inning with one aboard.

In a night game at Philadelphia, interrupted for an hour and five minutes by a practice blackout, the Boston Red Sox defeated the A's 1 to 0. Leon Culberson's home run in the fourth inning provided the winning punch.

The annual cost of fox hunting in England during normal times averages between 50 and 60 million dollars. This includes the permanent maintenace of homes in the country, the keep of grooms and hunt servants, horses, dogs, and the elaborate equipment necessary for participation in this sport.

In Mexico many languages are habitually spoken. The list of "native" languages is 125. To these may be added a few others recently discovered. All languages in Mexico are divided into five large linguistic groups.

ADVISES TRUCK PROTECTION

In order that trucks of Richard G. Stewart assigned to E. F. Scanlon and Frengel Motor Truck company and which are used as auxiliary fire trucks be protected by insurance, Solicitor R. M. White informed council today that the titles of both should be vested in the city. After the war they can be certified back to their owners, he stated.

No matter what anthropologists say, a race that reverts to savagery in war is a savage race with only a veneer of civilization.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

The American people are an odd lot . . . they like the oddest things. Look how many like to dabble in politics. This fall there will be an election and today you find men going around attending dinners, meetings and visiting in general. In fact politics is so strong in the minds of the people that the OPA permits one running for office to drive just about as much as he wants to. You read in the papers and hear over the radio about this convention and that convention or this organization and that organization supporting a fourth term for the present President . . . wonder why you never hear about organizations who are against a fourth term? Could it be that such activities are coveredup? That's just part of this great game that all seem to enjoy regardless of what they might say at various times during the year.

Say friends are you still writing those letters to the men in service . . . it's warm now and you spend most of your spare time outdoors but don't let the letter writing get away from you . . . the boys on the battle fronts and in the training camps are counting on your letters and you are counting on them to keep this United States a good place in which to live . . . you know they won't let you down and let's show them that we won't let them down. Keep the letters traveling.

Vacation this summer will be a quiet one as far as going places and doing things is concerned . . . a lot of people are just going to stay right at home and save their cash . . . then when the war is over they are going to start out and take that trip they have always wanted to take . . . heretofore it has been impossible because they couldn't stay home one summer and save enough money to go great distances . . . Bet the travel in foreign countries will be great after the war is over . . . Everybody and his brother will want to see where this battle was fought and so on . . . people are fun and they have more fun than anybody.

He rises about 6:30 and eats his breakfast, then sleeps a few moments, has a bath and then lies in the yard all day . . . pausing here and there to eat . . . he wears nothing but a pair of shorts and his two teeth shine in the sun . . . he's the King.

DIRECTORS OF RED CROSS IN SESSION

W. L. Dean Presides; Many Matters Of Importance To Chapter Considered

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—The board of directors of the Red Cross met yesterday in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. W. L. Dean, chairman of the local Red Cross, presided over the business meeting with the following directors present: Mrs. L. E. Springer, Mrs. Bruce Hunter, Mrs. John Gaffney, Mrs. Ben Anderson, Mrs. Sharp Johns, W. F. Kegel and R. J. Schill.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Carl Lersch, who was forced to resign due to the pressure of other duties. Mrs. James Cogley was unanimously elected to fill Mrs. Lersch's term as a representative of the board from Ellport. Mrs. Lersch offered her cooperation to the board of directors to assist at any time on the work in Ellport.

A financial report of the branch here in Ellwood City and of the Lawrence county chapter was read and approved. The National Red Cross will furnish arm bands for the Disaster Corps, Canteen Cors, Nurses Aid Corps and Motor Corps. As soon as these arm bands arrive here they will be given over to the chairman of each committee.

Mrs. C. L. Durbin of Chewton was appointed home service chairman for that area and all requests for soldiers or sailors from that area should be cleared through her.

Mrs. Bruce Hunter, chairman of the local blood donor committee, gave a progressive report on the activities of her committee. From February 15 to date, 585 local persons have gone to Pittsburgh to give their blood for the boys in the armed services of our country. Five hundred and twelve are signed up to give blood when the mobile unit comes here on July 6 and another 500 will be turned in by industry within the next day or so to swell this total to 1,000 donors. Mrs. Hunter stated that she needs 500 more blood donors to reach the 1500 quota that is required.

Mrs. L. E. Springer, chairman of production and volunteer service for the Red Cross, also made a very encouraging and progressive report when she reported that the sewing committee turned in 184 sewed garments and 209 articles of knit goods since April 20. Chewton, under Mrs. John Gaffney, turned in 45 knitted articles and a large quantity of garments. The surgical dressing group under the direction of Mrs. Sue Pitzer made 41,120 surgical dressings since March 3.

The first aid committee, under the direction of Robert Dambach, reported that a class of 52 is taking the first aid training course. Home nursing, under the direction of Miss Edith Shremp, graduated 110 high school students in home nursing. Mrs. R. C. Stiefel, Jr., chairman of the Motor Corps, reported that her corps is made up of 20 women who have given 173 hours to the work and have driven 1495 miles since April 20 to the present date. The canteen committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Stoughton, has 16 women in that work and 20 more women who have finished the food nutrition course. Miss L. E. Muder, chairman of the home service, reported that 19 cases were handled in May and 18 cases taken care of so far this month. In the nurses aid course 15 are taking the course at the local hospital under the direction of Mrs. Holt.

ELLWOOD PERSONALS

Mrs. Carl Shirey and son, Tommy, of Ewing Park are visiting this week with relatives at Darlington.

After several hours of cards, the nice prizes went to Mrs. Andrew McLaughlin, Mrs. McNany and Mrs. Charles Shuler.

The hostess was aided in serving a tempting lunch by Mrs. Charles Wehman, who will entertain the group on Wednesday, July 8, at her Burnstown home.

Bridge Club

Auction bridge played at two tables held the attention of Bridge club members at the home of Mrs. Russell Fennick, New Brighton road.

High awards went to Mrs. Paul Duffy and Mrs. Malcolm Blinn with the hostess being aided in serving a tempting lunch by Shirley Price.

T. T. T. Club

Mrs. Andrews Heinz was a pleasant hostess to T. T. T. club members at her home at Knox with Mrs. Edward Gearhard being a special guest.

To Mrs. William Crowley, Mrs. Kenneth Bollinger and Mrs. William Schlimmer went the lovely high score awards for cards. Mrs. Albert Blazen aided Mrs. Heinz in serving cool refreshments.

On Wednesday, July 7, the club will meet for a chicken dinner at the home of Mrs. Schlimmer, Frisco.

Entre Nous Club

Mrs. Leslie Mortensen opened her home, California avenue to members of the Entre Nous club with Mrs. Virginia Maxwell and Mrs. Beulah Dambach being special guests.

After several hours of cards, the nice awards went to Mrs. Mortensen, Mrs. Frank Rhodaberger, Mrs. Lewis Young and Mrs. Jack Johnston. Mrs. Rhodaberger and Mrs. Dambach aided in serving appealing refreshments.

Hostess for the next meeting in two weeks will be Mrs. Sadie McMurdo, Clover avenue.

Forrest Hills Club

Forrest Hills club members honored the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Frank McCarthy, when they assembled at her home on Pershing street. Mrs. Clarence Johnson and Mrs. J. A. Bloomer shared as special guests.

Cards occupied the group with the attractive prizes going to Mrs. Ben Chambers, Mrs. Edward Kerr and Mrs. Mell Guy. A large birthday cake centered the refreshment table.

Mrs. Donald Northrop, Forrest Hills, will entertain the club again in three weeks.

G. A. R. LODGE

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—The G. A. R. lodge will have an initiation of new members at the V. F. W. hall on Friday night.

Moose Sponsors Hospital Show

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—Twelve acts of varied entertainment were presented at the Deshon Army hospital, Butler, last night under the sponsorship of the Ellwood Moose lodge, and indicative of the success of the performance was the fact that the soldiers kept encoring the performers long after their usual bedtime.

Once again, hospital officials permitted the show to run overtime since the audience was enjoying it so much. There are now more than 800 wounded soldiers at the hospital and they filled the large auditorium for the show.

At the end of the program, the Moose lodge presented fifty decks of playing cards to the hospital.

Ellwood's next performance will be Tuesday night when the Shelby Social club will present a boxing match for the entertainment of the patients. The club will also present 800 packs of cigarettes at that time.

These programs are given under the general auspices of the American Legion-Chamber of Commerce war activities committee. Other programs are being arranged by the Elks club and the Sons of Italy lodge.

Mrs. Ronald Glover Honored At Party

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—Mrs. Howard Chilcoat and Miss Margretta Hall graciously entertained at a lovely party last night at the latter's home, in Todd avenue, in honor of Mrs. Ronald Glover (Virginia Hall), whose marriage was recently announced.

The event was in the form of a dessert-bridge with the tables being attractively decorated with sweet peas and roses. Four tables of cards were in play with the nice awards going to Miss Peggy Knight and Miss Marjorie Anderson, for contract; and Mrs. Larry Seeger, for auction.

Mrs. Glover was presented with an array of miscellaneous gifts for use in her new home.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—Admitted: Carl J. Lundgren, 715 Crescent avenue; and Mrs. Violet Chapman, Route 2.

Discharged: Floyd Kramer, Knox; Oscar Curry, Zelienople; Mrs. Audley Gibson and infant son, Route 6, New Castle; and Mrs. Ralph Anderson and infant son, Route 1, New Castle.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Risseeuw, 501 Pershing street, a son on Wednesday.

ORANGE LADIES

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—The Orange Ladies Lodge will meet on Friday night at 7:45 o'clock at the bank hall with Mrs. Louise Gregor in charge.

INITIATION HELD BY ELKS LODGE

Club Will Provide Entertainment At Deshon Hospital, Butler

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—A class of candidates was initiated by the Elks lodge at the regular meeting last night with the degree team being led by Joseph Cragle. Seventy-five members attended.

It was decided to provide entertainment soon at the Deshon hospital at Butler, under the auspices of the American Legion war activities committee.

Ray Aylesworth and Robert Robertson were named as a committee to meet the Navy Seabee contingent here today for enlistments, and offer them the use of the Elks hall and other club facilities. Elks blood donor chairman, George Fosnought, announced that all arrangements have been completed for handling the blood mobile unit at the club house during the week of July 6.

Favorable action was taken on aiding the large tobacco companies in sending cigarets to overseas servicemen at a cost of five cents per pack.

The club will cooperate with the police department in the policemen's ball to be held on Friday night in the ballroom, and M. F. Book was named chairman of the club committee.

Exalted ruler, Joseph Cragle, will attend the grand lodge convention to be held on July 12 and 13 in Boston, Mass.

After the meeting, tempting refreshments were served by a committee.

During July and August only one meeting will be held each month with the next session slated for Wednesday, July 14.

W. B. A. Members At Convention

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—Twenty-four members of the Senior W. B. A. lodge went to Pittsburgh today to attend the lodge convention in session at the Fort Pitt hotel. Mrs. Bessie Smith will be the local delegate.

At tonight's session, the local degree team captained by Mrs. Clarence Kaufman will perform their ritual.

A meeting of the Junior lodge was held last night at the bank hall with plans being made to attend the junior convention on Saturday in Pittsburgh. Susan Hollinbach will be the delegate and Bernice Partridge will be the toastmistress of the convention banquet.

The Juniors will meet again on Wednesday, July 14, for a picnic at Huber's Beach with arrangements in charge of Bernice Partridge, Susan Hollinbach and Betty Witte.

Dorothy J. Coulter Weds Ben R. Gardner

Wedding Solemnized Thursday Night At Baptist Church By Rev. J. N. Martin

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—The First Baptist church was the scene of a very lovely wedding last night at seven o'clock, when Miss Dorothy Jean Coulter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Coulter, of Bridge street extension, exchanged nuptial vows with Ben R. Gardner, son of Ben R. Gardner, Sr., of Pittsburgh Circle.

An attractive pink and white color theme was followed throughout, with the church decorations being roses in those colors, intermingled with greenery.

The popular single ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. J. Norman Martin, in the presence of a very large assemblage of relatives and friends.

Nuptial selections and the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin were played by the church organist, Miss Sallee Hazen, and Mrs. Laird Coulter sang "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was very charming in a street length white lace dress with which she wore a matching white lace hat and other white accompaniments. Her flowers were orchids.

Miss Phyllis Duncan was the bride's only attendant, and she appeared in a pink dress, matching that of the bride's, and her accessories were white. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Henry Gardner, of South Bend, Ind., served his brother as best man, and ushers were Laird Coulter, brother of the bride, and Charles Wallace, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

A pre-rehearsal dinner took place at one o'clock at the bride's home, with guests including the bridal party, Ben R. Gardner, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gardner, Mrs. Charles Wallace and son, Dicky, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bushman and daughter, Judy, Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Martin and the Coulter family. Mrs. Coulter had as her aides Mrs. F. L. Schweitzer and Mrs. H. M. Anderson.

A reception in the church parlors for 50 relatives and friends followed the congratulatory period. The table was centered with a large tiered wedding cake, topped with a tiny bride and groom under a large bell, and surrounded by a wreath of pink roses and tapers in the bridal theme.

Assisting Mrs. Coulter at the reception were Mrs. Garfield Thomas, Mrs. George Moyer, Mrs. H. M. Anderson, Mrs. F. L. Schweitzer and Miss Lylia Hazen.

Later in the evening the couple departed on a wedding trip to Cleveland and other lake points, and after July 1 will reside at 256 Triangle avenue, Dayton, O.

The bride is a graduate of the Ellwood high school with the class of '41, and of the Maison-Frederick Beauty school. She has been associated with the Newton Beauty shop.

Mr. Gardner is an alumnus of Penn State with the December, '42 class. He is employed at Wright Field, Dayton, O., in the radio research department.

CHURCH OF GOD PICNIC

ELLWOOD CITY, June 24.—The First Church of God picnic will be held on Saturday at Ewing Park beginning at 10:30 a. m. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock.

MORE ARE COMING

THE pay-as-you-go tax bill is now a law. President Roosevelt has signed it. On June 15, the ordinary run-of-the-mine income tax payer, and the designation includes most of us, paid his second quarterly installment of taxes, his last payment of that kind. The money applies to his 1943 income taxes. Three-fourths of his 1942 taxes have been "forgiven" and he is to pay the unforgiven 25 per cent in two installments, in 1944 and 1945. Athough three-fourths of his taxes have apparently been "forgiven" they have been raised rather than lowered, if we consider the amount of money he has to pay. He will pay as much in 1943 as he would have under the old system, and in the next two years will pay an additional 25 per cent, all of this of course in addition to current taxes.

The advantage of the new system is of course that we will pay our income taxes as we go along out of current earnings, instead of getting the bill the following year when the money is spent. Furthermore the government will collect from those who formerly have "settled" their obligations by merely making the statement they had no money and couldn't pay.

But now that this pay-as-you-go-system is arranged the statesmen are already looking around for ways and means to raise more money by taxation. We are still far short of paying what we should of the war bill out of the nation's current earnings.

President Roosevelt intimated that he would shortly recommend to Congress the necessity of finding more money for financing the war effort. He said he still opposed the sales tax because it would hit the poor of the country and most people fall in that category. But nobody has yet been able to devise a method of taxes which would not hit the poor either directly, indirectly, or both. We have only to recall the famous statement which Mr. Roosevelt made in 1932 when he was running for President the first time, a statement to the effect that taxes are paid in the sweat of the worker's brow. That is as true now as it was in 1932 and there is no way of getting away from it. With the wealthier classes already paying 90 per cent of their income in taxes it is evident that those who are not paying so great a portion will have to be tapped further.

The President is quoted as saying that higher taxes on liquor and tobacco might be one way to help close the inflationary gap. This is true. But such taxes are only sales taxes limited in scope and they certainly will fall on the poor harder than on the rich.

Men in Congress are loath to raise the income tax rates in view of the fact that the new "forgiveness" tax has already boosted taxes for the two years. But new taxes will have to be found. We cannot avoid them.

WHEAT NEWS IS BETTER

Latest reports are that estimates as to the size of the Kansas wheat crop will undoubtedly undergo revision upward. A month ago the guessers placed the crop at between 150,000,000 and 160,000,000 bushels. Wheat had just emerged from a trying month and didn't give promise of a crop that would cause farmers to enthuse.

But since then this diet staple has demonstrated its ability to thrive despite drought, winds, freezes and insects. First reports from Kansas wheat fields that have been harvested show that the cereal is turning out more bushels per acre than was anticipated. This gain spread over Kansas' vast wheat fields will make the 150,000,000-bushel guessers revise their last figures, grain men say. Of course, not all fields will beat estimates or a bumper crop would be in sight.

Reports from Barber county, first to send the combines through the yellow grain, showed 25-bushel yields. Now comes a report from Sumner county that wheat so far harvested has averaged better than 20 bushels to the acre, when a lower yield was expected. Next to victories over the Axis, news of increased crop yields is the best news Americans can read in their newspapers in this year of 1943

America reached its industrial greatness during an era that might be termed the Age of the Atlantic. Heaviest trade was with nations across the ocean to the east. Many industrial ideas and processes came from there. Now Europe is badly battered. America has reached self-sufficiency as an industrial nation. From now on, under plans that are being formulated, the United States is to contribute to the rise of other industrial nations. China's grandiose plans suggest that the Age of the Pacific may be dawning.

Chinese spokesmen, in the United States as a result of the almost forgotten food conference at Hot Springs, Va., say they look forward to adding cotton to China's list of exportable commodities. Doctor Kuo, leader of the delegation, says this is a long-term view, and that development of such a goal would be a gradual process. At any rate, it was generous of him to warn the cotton growers of the South.

America is assuming an important position in China's post-war trade objectives for both imports and exports, Doctor Kuo said. A general intensification of the trade which prevailed between the two countries before the war seemed to be to Doctor Kuo's liking.

A ten-year program for improving China's transportation system would call upon a rather generous importation of American machinery and rail equipment, he said. This would taper off as the nation increased its own industrial activity.

At the present time, and for the first few post-war years U. S. aid to China would be most effective in the form of technicians and scientists skilled in agricultural production, Doctor Kuo opines.

They say that one way to get wise is to listen. But it depends somewhat on the guy who is doing the talking.

A machinegun small enough to fit into a woman's handbag has been invented. One of the planks in the peace treaty should call for retirement of these from circulation.

Crops may be the poorest in three years, the United States Department of Agriculture fears. But mere reference to the poorest American crops in three years must make the Nazi's mouth water.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD'S PLACE IN HOME RULE

A truly democratic home is one in which each member respects the personality of every other and strives to bring out the best in every other person of the family.

To have this type of home the parents must be companionable and co-operative, Each should try to understand the other by putting himself in his imagination in the other's place. Both should have the same attitude toward the children and they in turn toward their parents.

All Have Voice

Every citizen of the state is allowed, even expected, to express his wishes about the rules for governing the entire group. Since the group is so large, representatives are selected to draw up these rules andl other representatives to execute them and to see that justice and deserved liberty is had by all.

To date, our democracy has held that those who are under 21 years of age, the mentally incompetent and the criminals are not fit to take responsibility for being these representatives or choosing them.

Certainly in the family, the child may be able to assume considerable responsibility for his own liberty while also protecting and promoting the welfare of his family long before he is 21.

Obviously, the nature and degree of responsibility increases with his age, education and experience. It rests with the parents to decide just what responsibility he may assume. In the truly democratic home, the child is allowed, even required, to assume all these duties as soon as he proves able.

Test Of Democracy

Until the parents of the truly democratic family are sure the child is ready to assume a certain responsibility they find effective ways to make him do things he should do and deterring him from doing things he shouldn't do.

A test of democracy is in the parent's wisdom in these matters. Another test is in how well the growing child learns to respect the rights and feelings of his parents and other members of the family.

In an ideally democratic state, all its citizens obey its laws. In an ideally democratic home, children obey their parents and the rules of the family these children have helped make. No one in a really democratic family imposes on anybody else. All share, therefore, in the chores, drudgeries and duties.

THE AGE QUESTION

Said Crankmire as we chatted:
"I am sixty-one or three,
I never have been certain of my birthday, as you see.
There's a cousin says I'm older;
there's an aunt who says I'm not;
She insists to give me welcome
she was right upon the spot.
There's an uncle who knows better, and a sister with a book
Which will prove beyond all cavil
I am older than I look.

"There's a friend of ours who's known us since eighteen
ninety-three;
She's very sure about my age;
she went to school with me
She vows I'm under sixty, but the others make it known
She cuts my age a little that she may reduce her own.
There's a dear, devoted neighbor
who my birth date can provide.
'He was born,' she says, 'the evening of the day my uncle
died.'

"It's a family discussion which goes
on and on and on,
That they'll ever reach agreement
hope is absolutely gone.
Since my mother wasn't certain,
and my father couldn't say,
And a fire destroyed the records,
and the parson moved away.
If my age should be important, as
to some it seems to be,
Take your choice from those who know it—sixty-one or two or three."

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

Well of course if you want to, you can believe that Hitler or the Ku Klux Klan or both stirred up the Detroit race riot.

But if you want to be strictly factual and accurate you will turn back the pages of your photo album a couple of years.

You will see the overturned automobiles, the mobs, the maniacs with the clubs, the broken heads, the fleeing men just as you saw such things in the pictures this week.

The differences are that nobody suggested then that Hitler or the KKK was promoting the riot; there was no proclamation, order or suggestion from Washington that the rioters disperse and go home; and it wasn't a color riot.

It was the scene outside the Ford plant during the big strike there and don't tell me it wasn't because I was there.

If you like you can turn back still further—to 1937 when the sit-down strike introduced rule by mob in Detroit and Washington said "everything's all right—the boys are within their rights."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight, 8:32; sun rises tomorrow, 5:32.

When a woman is always cleaning and sweeping around the house it looks as if she thinks there are dirty people around.

Being forced to save is the hardest kind of saving.

We must do things in this country that will make our boys like to come home. Do your best to help them.

In Washington most every day we hear of some high up tell some other high up to go to hell, but they don't go.

Another need of the times is something for a chain smoker to stick in his mouth when he doesn't really want a smoke.

It has been demonstrated that a shotgun or any other kind of a gun is not a good thing for children to play with.

The New Deal can always dig up many things to boast about, but one of them isn't a treasury surplus.

Man is seldom impartial in his judgment of himself.

One of the many blessings bestowed upon those born in this country is that they learn to speak American at home as a matter of course and are not confused by its intricacies and vagaries as are those who attempt to learn it in later life.

In World war I, a Poilu and a Yank became quite friendly and the Yank offered to help him to learn to speak American . . . saying he would correct his written work. Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for sometime, but finally a letter came, couched in the following choice words:

"In small time I can learn so many English from his text-book and her dictionary as I think I will to come at the America and to go on the scafford to lecture."

Experience dispels illusion.

Rover seems to be a good name for dogs.

A sailor has been credited with this bright saying: "I was in a phone booth talking to my girl when some one wanted the phone and we had to get out."

Even when a law has teeth in it, there must be somebody to make it bite.

ANSWERING CURIOUS CYNIC . . .

. . . the fur seal accumulates as many as 150 wives . . . seal is the wrong name, he should have been called a wolf.

. . . you may have noticed it too, but no one seems to have the courage to select any one woman and call her an Average American Woman.

. . . we used to hear that 'gentlemen prefer blonds'—the real truth is that most gentlemen's preference is 'red heads'

. . . the road to success is filled with women pushing their husbands along.

People cannot have much respect for a person who tells a big lie, when a little lie would have answered the purpose.

Trucks are now being made that will run on land and water. Trucks that would not hit a telegraph pole would also be a good thing.

Think as much as you talk or talk as little as you think.

One conclusion arrived at by the secret food conference was that people do require food to sustain life and that food will either win or lose the war, depending on who gets it.

In some places campaigns are being put on to collect junk jewelry. That ought to bring in a big pile of stuff.

STRETCHING THE POINT

We've been expecting this old-timer to show up pretty soon, and here it is:

He had never been outside the United States, and neither had she, but both were recounting their experiences abroad.

"And Asia. Ah, Asia, wonderful Asia. Never shall I forget. Turkey, India—all of them. And most of all China, the celestial kingdom. How I loved it!"

"And the pagodas—did you see them?"

She held her ground.

"Did I see them?" She powdered her nose. "My dear, I had dinner with them."

Husbands are like automobiles. If you take care of them you don't have to be getting new ones all the time.

It's a good idea to carry your own packages home from the stores, no matter what rules there are about such things.

IS CONCEIT AN ASSET?

"Do you think conceit is an asset or a liability? It seems to me that egotistical people derive great pleasure from thinking that they are superior, even though they really are not?" — B. B. G.

Answer: Off hand, it would seem that conceit is a rare gift of the gods. An egotistical person of mediocre appearance or even homely features finds her mirrored reflection a joy to behold. She idealized herself to the extent that she thinks she is a rare treat to every onlooker.

I still think, however, that it is a social liability. Although conceited people may derive unlimited pleasure from their illusion of grandeur, they so bore everyone with whom they come in contact that they soon lose their popularity.

Is there anything more annoying than a homely woman bragging about her conquests—reiterating constantly how every man stares at her in wide-eyed admiration? Another item on the liability side of the egotistical-minded. They live in constant fear that they will not get the attention they think they deserve—that they will not be the center of attraction.

Invariably they are failures because they build themselves for a grand let-down. They imagine they have talents they do not possess.

Since they do not realize their limitations, they overstep their bounds with resultant unhappiness because they are not appreciated.

Self-assurance, tempered with a modicum of modesty, is the happy medium between conceit and an inferiority complex.

Question: When a boy and girl have met and then returned to their homes in distant towns, may the girl, correctly start up a correspondence?—B. B.

Answer: Let the boy take the initiative, unless he is in the service and has especially asked you to write to him.

Tomorrow: Displaying Public Anger.

SENATOR GLEAN TELLS US:

You, like all other Americans, are operating with the government and the co-telephone company by curtailing the use of long distance calling; at least, are restricting your conversations to brief necessary messages.

Most of us are cooperating because we have been asked to do so to help the War Effort . . . to keep the lines clear for important war messages and also to keep the lines clear for any soldiers who wish to call home.

Because we have been patriotic, many Americans will be surprised to learn that Senator Byrd's investigation reveals how two . . . just two . . . government bureaucratic agencies are making use of the phone.

The telephone bill of the WPB over a six months' period averages a cool million dollars. The OWI spends just double that over a six months' period, or an average of over four million dollars a year.

Six million dollars a year for telephone calls for just two bureaucratic departments. Now multiply that figure by the total of active and vocal bureaus in Washington . . . just the bureaus in Washington alone . . . and you'll get some rough idea of where some of our tax money is going.

The strickers distributed to motorists classifying them as 'A' or 'B' ration card holders all bear this blunt query on the back: "Is this trip REALLY necessary?"

Perhaps it would help a little if each phone in each governmental department had a small printed message above the transmitter with these words, "Is this call necessary?"

If a test were necessary, we'd suggest that the OPA try out the signs for a week to see if it does not reduce the number of unnecessary calls.

On second thought though, we have an idea that no one in that department or any other bureaucratic department would pay one bit of attention to it. Indeed, it might have just the opposite effect . . . increasing the number of calls Or, am I becoming too cynical?

It is claimed that a highball in a Hollywood club contains scarcely enough liquor to color the water. Oh, wham do doodle wham!

One day we hear there is to be a scarcity of liquor and the next day we hear there will be enough. Often very little is enough.

A Pittsburgh woman in her divorce suit claims her husband drove her down to the river in his car and told her to jump into it. Many a woman would have thrown him into the water.

Probably twice in a lifetime would be often enough to have an appetite for pickled pigs feet. No ears at all, please.

Physicians say one million women are overweight. These, of course, are just round figures.

Race prejudice is not one-sided. Over 3000 Negroes struck because they objected to white foremen.

We are all self-centered, and nobody can concentrate on the woes of the world when his stomach hurts.

Dave, having had a good week, decided to buy his wife a present. He picked up the dining-room table, carried it out of the house, put it on top of his head, and was ambling down the road when Bill Smith met him.

"Hullo, Dave," said Bill, "are you moving?"

"No," replied Dave, "I'm going to buy Mabel a tablecloth."

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Chairman Sol Bloom of the house of representatives' foreign relations committee seems to me to understand the European Axis powers as they are fully comprehended by no other statesman in this country. Probably he has no equal in England, either. For that matter, he is not ignorant of the Jap angle of the Axis triangle. However, his acquaintance with the Orient is not as intimate as his familiartly with our Occidental foes. He does not contend that it is.

Sol is an outright mind-reader among the Italians, though, as similarly he is a wizard in his reckonings as to the Germans and such neighbors as may be more or less affiliated with the latter.

The New York congressman, be it understood, has been, for a long time, a very rich man. He has had the financial resources to do all the overseas visiting he had a fancy for. But he had not the inclination to do it on a "sassiety" basis. His idea was to pay his fare and hotel bills and get genuinely in touch with the folk he was calling on. This is a very different thing from mixing with them in ballrooms and at miscellaneous diplomatic gatherings. Sol was not a plenipotentiary. He was strictly unofficial and made contacts impossible to an accredited government representative.

Once, he told me about a characteristic incident.

He has a daughter, Miss Vera Bloom, who, just after World War I, developed an ambition to break into the "feature-writing" news field. Since she was young and journalistically inexperienced, editors were reluctant to bargain with her. Still Vera persisted.

Finally, one of the feature-news agencies, long one of her targets, hit on the idea of offering to Miss Bloom an assignment that she would recognize was too much for her—and then the editor figured, he would get some relief.

It was in the era of Gabriele d'Annunzio, then Italy's immediate post-war "big man." Gabriell was

CONFUSION WORSE CONFOUNDED

An organization known as the Citizens Bureau of Governmental Research, Inc., of New York state, recently has completed an analysis of federal agencies and the executive structure created to deal with the war and its problems.

The research and the resulting analysis were prompted, the report says, by the fact that New York State's share of federal expenditures for one year of war "is more than the entire market value of its real estate, urban and rural." The same is true of other states, of course, and for that reason, among others, the report should be in the hands of every responsible state official in the country.

In addition to the monetary consideration involved in the nation's war effort, the New York organization points out that "the number of men who will return safe is a figure geared to war production and other operations of the central management in Washington."

The New York Bureau first looked into the matter of federal executive organization set up to handle war problems. The result was not pretty. Instead of finding a streamlined, efficient structure of simplified, speedy management, which one naturally might expect from an administration that has so carefully alluded to many of our existing governmental institutions as belonging to the horse and buggy age, the bureau found a tangle of lines leading out from the President's office, on the organization chart, that well might serve as a pattern for a spider web.

Naturally, in directing a war, the President must have broad executive powers. Nobody denies this. Moreover, to operate efficiently an executive — any executive — must limit the number of subordinates with whom he has to deal. In this regard the President's own committee on administrative management, in its first report submitted to him on last September 2, said: "The number of immediate subordinates with whom an executive can deal effectively is limited . . . In the Army it has been said to be three subordinates; in business it has frequently been set at five or six; and some students of government have placed the limit at ten or twelve."

Regardless of which figures one may regard as nearly ideal, it is a far cry from the existing chart of federal management which lists eighty-one separate and distinct departments each directly responsible to Mr. Roosevelt. If that were all there is to it, one might say that Mr. Roosevelt could select the half dozen or dozen agencies most directly concerned with the war and let the others more or less run themselves. But it isn't that simple

WASHINGTON, June 24.

THE WARNING of five Democratic Senators that the home front is dangerously sagging, coupled with a request that WMB Director Byrnes stop referring to intergovernmental disputes and do something about it, merely says again what a good many others have been saying for a long time. The fact is it is impossible longer to ignore the crisis at which things have arrived in the Washington management of the war.

SUCCESS OF our armed forces abroad makes the partial collapse and terrible confusion at home a shameful contrast. Everybody concedes that, despite Administration handicaps, the army and American industry have done a fine job. But no one, except the paid propagandists, feels that things go well in other directions. These are simple statements of fact. So far as the home front is concerned, the evidence of incompetency is overwhelming. Of course, the most spectacular failure is in the field of labor relations, where the refusal of the Administration to develop a firm policy, or allow Congress to enact regulating laws, has permitted a two-year series of costly strikes, culminating in the present coal-mine situation.

WHATEVER THE ultimate outcome of that, it must be clear that the responsibility rests upon an administration which weakly temporized, conciliated and compromised. But even more appalling is the state in which the Food Administration has gotten. Months ago the President belatedly appointed Mr. Chester Davis Food Administrator. Mr. Davis is a good man and there was much hope that at last there would be intelligent direction in this vital business. But the hope waned when it developed that Mr. Davis had been given responsibility without power. Hope died when Mr. Davis was not put on the War Mobilization Board. It is now clear that Mr. Davis has not been able to form an effective food policy, because he has lacked full control of the agencies dealing with the food problem.

IT IS not surprising that he is reported on the edge of resigning. Pleas to the President from Democratic members of Congress to make Mr. Davis or someone else a real food czar have been as ineffectual as the recommendations of Mr. Herbert Hoover. Soon or late, the President will have to do exactly that, but the delay adds to the dangers. Considering the warning and the evidences of the food shortage, the long procrastination in dealing with so immensely important a question seems almost incredible. Nor are some of the names mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Davis reassuring. What the President has done—and is still doing—is to evade

By ERICH BRANDEIS

One of the silliest controversies I have ever heard of is that affair in Detroit where the office girls in the Ford Plant refused to come to work in slacks.

The management, according to the reports, had ordered slacks as the standard garb for women workers and refused to give its stenographers and clerks any work to do when they appeared in dresses and suits.

It was a safety measure for those with jobs out in the shops, said the bosses—skirts and frills are liable to get caught in the gear, and the order was made to apply to all in the plant.

"Nonsense," said the girls with office jobs, "what gears are there in typewriters to get caught in?"

There's altogether too much interference with people's individualities, I think.

Why can't we let folks do as they want to, dress as they want to dress, live as they want to live?

What's wrong with sweaters? Yet what a huliaballoo was made about them in Hollywood recently!

One employer says slacks are indecent, another claims the same for dresses.

As long as the girls do their work why can't we leave them alone?

Who is so holy, who is so perfect that he is qualified to regulate the lives of others?

Let us say a girl is very beautiful. Let us say that men look at her. Let us say they stop work and whistle.

That won't last long. Pretty soon they get used to her and they'll work so much the harder because there is beauty around.

You don't have to yield to temptation. You don't have to get drunk because there are saloons all over the town.

You don't have to chase after a girl just because she wears a tight-fitting sweater.

I have no sympathy with any society that makes laws based on weakness.

Let's make laws for the strong. The weak will fall by the wayside, anyway.

Just because there are a few ogglers, leerers and whistlers around that doesn't mean that we have to put all beauty in sackcloth and ashes.

I know quite a few reformers. And I've noticed that they are usually the first ones to peep.

Shades Of Those Good Old Summer Picnic Days!

Remember the days, even last summer, when you could plan on getting a group together around the outdoor fireplace for a steak fry? And have all the tender juicy sirloins that everyone could eat? With casseroles of scalloped potatoes, corn pudding dripping with butter, green beans with cheese dressing, three-layer cakes, strawberry shortcake with ice cream on the side, and gallons and gallons of coffee, to fill in around the steak?

Now such picnics are just shades of the dear dead days beyond recall until the war is won.

They can still be given though, but after a new fashion. Not on such an elaborate scale as last summer and the summer before, but the way one local group managed an evening hamburg fry recently illustrates one way of picnicking though rationed.

By budgeting hamburgers on the basis of two per person, the expenditure of red points, which were afterwards collected from those who came, the red point allotment was kept to five for two people. Coffee was contributed in small lots of one-half and one-quarter pound by those who spare some.

By pounding meat cakes thin in making them which makes better hamburgers anyway, it is possible to make eight from a pound of ground meat. Picnic extras, such as chopped onions, potato chips, relishes, greens, and fruit, may be planned according to unrationed supplies available.

Transportation difficulties make a problem too of the location for al fresco eating. If the picnicking group is large, the biggest and best-equipped backyard that is offered, if it is convenient for walking or busing, solves the problem. Then those who attend can leave the car at home with no fear that at the picnic an O. P. A. man may turn out to be 'the little man who was there' too.

'Urgent Warning' Is Sent To Hollanders By Exile Government

Dutchmen Told Allied Raids On Nazi Industries Will Be Intensified

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 24.—The Netherlands government Wednesday night broadcast to the people of Holland an "urgent warning" of the Allied high command of imminent intensification of air raids on Nazi war industry in the occupied countries and urged Dutchmen to stay away from target areas.

The high command statement, broadcast over radio orange, declared that "attacks on factories in the Netherlands working for Germany will shortly be executed with still more fierceness than has been the case so far."

The declaration said avation, locomotive, motor vehicle and submarine part plants would be singled out for the heaviest attacks and warned Dutchmen that "from now on you will be exposed to great danger" in working in such plants.

The high command urged Dutch workers to send their families away from the neighborhood of such plants, stay away themselves whenever they could, and if forced to continue working to demand adequate alarm and shelter systems.

Some Anthracite Miners In Rebellion

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 24.—Rebellion swept the ranks of the United Mine Workers of America today as thousands of anthracite miners defied John L. Lewis, U. M. W. A. president, and other union officials and refused to end their strike for higher wages.

At last 21,000 of the anthracite industry's 80,000 coal workers failed to report for work, with thousands of others reported idle. The exact number could not be immediately ascertained.

The Glen Alden Coal company, world's largest anthracite producer, was almost completely closed and other large and small companies reported failure to resume operations or only part of their employes back at work.

Pittsburgh Trolley Accidents Injure 120 In Two Weeks

Latest Mishap Injures 14 When Freight Car Smashed Into Sewickley Car

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Casualties in five street car accidents in the Pittsburgh district within the last two weeks rose to 120 today following the crash of an old-style trolley and a freight train late yesterday at nearby Coraopolis.

Fourteen passengers were injured in the latest mishap which occurred when a freight car on a spur into the Standard Steel Spring Company No. 2 plant rammed into the center doors of a Sewickley bound street car and smashed every window on that side of the vehicle.

Most seriously injured was Miss Frances Meehan, 48, of Sewickley, who suffered cuts of the upper right arm. She was detained for treatment at Sewickley Valley hospital. Thirteen others were given first aid treatment for cuts and burns and then discharged.

The most serious accident occurred 10 days ago when a Philadelphia to Pittsburgh Greyhound bus ploughed into a Pittsburgh trolley, killing three and injuring 70. Three other street car collisions raised the number of casualities to over the hundred mark.

Local Delegates To Education Meeting

Two Teachers Will Attend National Education Association Indianapolis Convention

Two local teachers will attend the National Education association meeting of official delegates which will be held in Indianapolis, Ind., on June 27, 28 and 29 at the Claypool hotel in that city. Special midwestern district Pennsylvania State Education association delegate to the meeting is Miss Helen Maxwell, of Arthur McGill school faculty.

Miss Elsie Calvin of the high school faculty, will attend the N.E.A. house of delegates meeting as a representative of the New Castle branch of the state association.

Miss Maxwell is president of the local branch and former second director of the state organization. When the number of directors for Pennsylvania was increased from one to two due to the growth in size of the P.S.E.A., it was she who was elected as the second director. She is also a member of the National Equal Opportunity committee.

BABY INJURED

Leo McDonald, aged three years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McDonald, of 421 Kurtz Place, was treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital at three o'clock this morning for injuries received when he fell from his crib.

John's Counsel to Christians

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

St. John the Evangelist.

"Beloved, I pray that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth."—III John 2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 27 is II John and III John, the Golden Text being III John 2, "Beloved, I pray that in all things thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth.")

Our lesson today consists of two private letters contained in the New Testament, the other being by Paul. We do not know just where these letters were written, nor exactly what time, but it may have been at Ephesus, where John lived for the most part after Jesus' ascension, and the time might be about A. D. 90-95.

These letters to good friends give us a picture of the life of these early Christian people and somehow make them seem nearer to us, not just some ancient people whose joys and problems are far away and utterly different from our own.

The first letter is to the "elect lady." She is simply called that, and no one knows who she was or what her name was. Some have called her Electa; others think her name may have been Kyria, a common Greek woman's name, but we have no proof that either name was hers, and will call her, as John does, the "elect lady."

The letter begins: "The elder unto the elect lady and her chidiren, whom I love in truth; and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth."

Impressive Greeting

In our day of informality, the greetings of these ancient people, both when meeting on the road, or when writing, is most impressive. The salutations are also very sweet and beautiful.

"Grace be with you, mercy and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love," John begins.

He tells her he has rejoiced greatly that her children are "walking in truth," and then beseeches her, "not as though I write a new commandment unto thee, but that we had from the beginning, that we love one another."

How many times in the New Testament are we told to love one another, and how sadly we fail to obey this command.

Next John's letter warns this lady not to allow "a deceiver" to enter her house nor even wish him God speed, because that might make her a "partaker of his evil deeds." We might apply this to our lives by shunning evil companions. We all naturally imitate those with whom we are closely associated. Not only do we imitate their mannerisms, but their speech and even their thoughts and ways of living. Isn't it much better, then, to choose friends who have high ideals and live fine lives, than to choose those that do to us no good and probably do us harm?

He concludes by saying that he has many things to say, but would not "write with paper and ink," as he hopes to see her and her family before long. The "paper" he speaks of was Egpytian papyrus, and the ink was lamp black and gall juice or soot and water. This is the only time in the New Testament where paper is mentioned.

Letter to Gaius

The second epistle was written to a friend named Gaius. There are four men by that name in the New Testament—one a member of the church at Corinth, a companion of Paul seized at Ephesus, and a third a companion of Paul's. The one to whom John wrote this letter was still another. John begins with a beautiful salutation:

"Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth."

John was sure that Gaius' soul was in health, for he says, "I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth."

He then commends Gaius for his faithful work. These preachers and teachers of the early church went from place to place in the name of the Lord Jesus, preaching the word. They were poor and had to depend upon the hospitality of other members of the church for food and lodging.

Even among those first diciples of the Master there were some who were selfish and self-seeking. It seems almost impossible that so soon after Jesus' passing they would forget His life and teaching, but so it was, as it is today. John writes to Gaius of Diotrephes, who was such a man. He wanted to dominate the church, to "boss" it, as we would say today. He had forgotten Jesus' injunction that he "wno would be greatest among you, let him be your servant," and took it upon himself to say who should be received of the congregation and who should not, and worse still, spoke maliciously of John and others of the faithful, refusing to receive them and even casting them out of the church. John wrote that he would remember these things when he visited the church.

Demetrius he spoke of warmly, as a man who "hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself." He concludes his letter:

"I trust I shall shortly see thee, and we shall speak face to face. Peace be with thee. Our friends salute thee. Greet the friends by name."

Hunt Children Bitten By Dog

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—Police were searching today for several children believed to have been bitten by a rabid chow dog.

After Raymond Utz, eight, was bitten on the arm Monday, Mrs. Catherine Scanlon, owner of the dog, was ordered to tie up the dog for 10 days to see if it developed rabies. The dog yesterday escaped from her cellar, biting Mrs. Scanlon on the ankle as it ran, and later was reported to have bitten several children and dogs in the neighborhood.

The chow was chased and shot by patrolmen and was pronounced rabid by hospital authorities.

GREEN PEA CROP IN '42 LOWER BY $3.24

(Special To The News)

HARRISBNRG, June 24.—Compilations of the State Department of Agriculture show that the average per acre value of green peas produced in this state last year for canning was $57.13 which was $3.24 less than the 1941 average.

The previous 10-year average value was $54.80. The lower return was due to the greatly decreased yield as a result of unfavorable weather conditions.

The apple blossom is the state flower of Arkansas.

RAUB-BOHN WEDDING CEREMONY IN CHURCH

At a lovely summer wedding Wednesday morning, at 10:00 o'clock, in Central Presbyterian church, Emma Della Raub, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Raub, of Edenburg, became the bride of Robert Edson Bohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edson W. Bohn, of 18 South Front street.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Robert Meade Patterson, pastor of the church, before an altar banked with red roses, white lilies and blue delphinium.

The couple's attendants were Miss Dorothy Jane Bohn, sister of the groom and Mont W. Forney, uncle of the groom. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding, the bride wore a street length dress of white jersey, white veiled hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was red and white roses. Miss Bohn wore a poudre blue net dress, blue veiled hat and her corsage was of yellow tea roses.

John F. Carlin was organist for the ceremony.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Mont W. Forney, of 713 Carlisle street entertained, at a dinner, in her home for the couple and immediate families.

After a brief congratulatory period, Mr. and Mrs. Bohn left for a honeymoon to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N. Y. They will be at home to friends after June 30th, at 141 Boyles avenue.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of New Castle high school. Mrs. Bohn is an employee of the Pennsylvania Power company and Mr. Bohn is an employee of the Shenango Pottery company.

LATINA-GALLONIO CEREMONY WEDNESDAY

Miss Jean Louise Latina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Latina, 811 North Locust street, became the bride of Pvt. Joseph Gallonio of Elgin Field, Pensacola, Fla., son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Gallonio of 422 East Division street, at an impressive wedding ceremony in St. Vitus church on Wednesday morning, June 23, which was accentuated with the military note.

The vows were exchanged in the presence of a large gathering of guests, with the Rev. Fr. N. DeMito officiating before the beautifully embanked altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractive in her wedding gown of white crepe made entrain, with sweethert neckline. Her cap shape veil caught with seed pearls featured the same fashion lines, and she wore a gold crucifix and chain, a gift of the bridegroom. Her arm bouquet was made up of Talisman roses and orchids.

A school chum of the bride, Miss Stella Carkitto was chosen as maid of honor. She wore a smartly styled pouldre' blue lace and chiffon toe length gown, and carried an arm cluster of Talisman roses, which matched her floral head dress.

Pvt. Samuel Buonpane of Fort Houston, Texas, served his classmate as best man.

For the occasion, the church organist provided appropriate music.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents afterwards, the nuptial motif predominating in the able appointments. A reception followed, with a host of relatives and friends participating.

Later in the evening, Pvt. and Mrs. Gallonio left for Elgin Field, Pensacola, Fla., where they will take up residence. She is a graduate of New Castle high in January, '42, and he also graduated from the same school in June, '41. Prior to his induction in the U. S. Army Pvt. 'SHORT STORY'

FOR LADIES ONLY

THIS STORY TAKES PLACE AT THE LADIES STORE, 108 E. WASHINGTON ST., NEW CASTLE, PA.

We need not describe the place to you, for most of our readers are well acquainted with its location.

SO—ON WITH THE STORY. We had anticipated a BIG COAT and SUIT BUSINESS IN JUNE, but it never came. With the result that we found ourselves STUCK with over 300 GARMENTS.

"WE CAN'T PICKLE THEM" and we can't keep them either, for we need the room for our winter coats and suits that are already coming in.

SO—WE MUST UNLOAD THESE 300 GARMENTS, regardless of the LOSS we will have to take in doing so. THAT'S THE STORY and WE GOT THE JOB TO DO. With apologies to Red Skelton, WE ARE GOING TO DOOD IT.

ONE GROUP OF COATS AND SUITS are going on SALE AT ONLY $10.00—NOT ONE EVER SOLD FOR LESS THAN $18.75; some as high as $22.50.

The second group to go on sale at $15.00 takes in the cream of our better COATS and SUITS. And what a value they are; Some garments in the group sold as high as $29.50.

In this selection you will find NAVYS, BLACKS, BROWNS, TWEED, PLAIDS, DRESSY AND SPORT STYLES. Sizes to fit most everyone from 10 to 44.

We know this is not the weather to be wearing a SPRING COAT or suit, BUT . . . we are making it the WEATHER for you to BUY ONE so you will have it when the cool weather does warrant it.

We sincerely feel that we are giving you some "good advice" by asking you to come down to our store this week and invest in one of these garments, for we can not promise you a real opportunity like this again. We'll be seeing you.

The Story Of Famous Diamonds
Diamonds That Have Shared In the Course of World Events
STEWART DIAMOND
IT TURNED A MAN'S MIND
Of all the goliaths in stones to come out of South Africa, the Stewart is perhaps the most famous river stone. The rough diamond, weighing 296 carats, was found at Waldeck's plant on the Vaal River in 1872. The finder went out of his mind for three days, and could do nothing but laugh and cry, tossing the stone up in the air and catching it again like a child. It was reduced to a beautiful brilliant of 123 carats, and is now owned in England.
